

WE NOMINATE

George Thomas Reynolds, top-flight 46-year old physicist and a teacher of rare talent and insights, who has long been concerned with bridging the gulf of misunderstanding lying between scientists and non-scientists in a world increasingly dependent on science and technology. This week, as Princeton University moved forward with its "Science in Human Affairs Program," the energetic Reynolds as program director etched in broad outline the steps he and his associates are taking in a long-range effort to raise the levels of "scientific literacy" and to deepen non-scientists' appreciation of the nature of scientific enterprise.

At a time when many educators across the Western World seem to be wringing their hands in anguish over the problems presented by "The Two Cultures," and even taking refuge in volumes such as "Science: The Glorious Entertainment," Reynolds, a skilled musician, a wide-ranging reader and for some years a teacher in the Trinity Church School, states that "in its broadest sense science is but one means by which man seeks to achieve a valid and coherent view of nature and man's place in it. Science, equally with art, music or literature extends the boundaries of experience and adds new dimensions to the human character."

Reynolds, Trenton-born and a full-time Princetonian since launching graduate work here in 1940, stresses that no university in the 1960's can "continue to offer a truly modern liberal education unless science plays some important role in the experience of each of its undergraduates." Rooted in this conviction, which he shares with his committee and the University's academic officers, are such innovations as special science courses for "non-science majors," seminars for faculty members in the humanities and social sciences, and Joseph Henry grants on the graduate level for students working on the relationships between science and society.

One of the handful of students ever to attain a perfect straight-A academic record at Rutgers, from where he was graduated in 1939 with awards in five different areas of study, Reynolds took his advanced degrees at Princeton and in 1944 entered upon two years of service with the Navy, including research with the Manhattan Project at Los Alamos and occupation duty in Japan. Since World War II, which produced an Army-Navy Certificate of Appreciation for his scientific contributions, he has won widespread recognition as a research leader in the field of cosmic rays and the unstable high-energy nuclear particles.

In his laboratory here, Reynolds, a tireless lecturer at other institutions under the auspices of such organizations as the American Institute of Physics, helped perfect the liquid scintillator, now a standard research tool for nuclear and cosmic ray research as well as for biological and medical research, which permits the measurement of two unconnected events separated in time by as little as a two-billionths of a second. Several years ago, and again in Reynolds' laboratory, the filament scintillation chamber was developed, providing for the first time precision tracking of an ionizing particle.

For advocating that "our scientists out of self-interest are going to have to try and tell others what science is all about"; for sensing that science cannot be made a scapegoat any more than art or religion or philosophy can be made whipping-boys; for his vision as a man of science and as an educator; he is our nominee for

WHAT'S MY LINE? There was this contest, about who would catch the biggest fish or the most fish, or something, but David Duncan decided it was much more fun just to sit in the cool sunshine and hope that something would come along to capture the worm on the end of the line. WEST WINDSOR HAS PLAN

Unveiled After Two Years. "Because of its overall attractiveness and favorable municipal tax basis, West Windsor will continue to grow as a Residential, Industrial - Research community. It is this type of development which must be planned for."

This is the kernel of the proposed West Windsor Township Master Plan, mailed this week to all residents, and scheduled for informal discussion next Wednesday at 8 in the Dutch Neck School. A formal public hearing will be held later.

The picture revealed by the Master Plan is that of a plump little community, prosperous since pre-Revolutionary times when it was a loamy farming area, prosperous today because its farmers, descended from those pre-Revolutionary farmers in many cases, and its post-war newcomers, have taken canny advantage of such natural resources as Route One, the main line of the Pennsylvania Railroad, the equidistance of New York and Philadelphia and the proximity of Princeton University, to attract the businesses that pay the freight.

West Windsor's 5,000 residents pay less in taxes than the residents of any other Mercer County municipality. (See "Topics of the Town.") Industrial and commercial properties are valued at $6.3 million.

residential properties at $5 million; farm land at $2 million.

Bonds? What Are They? No bonds have been issued for municipal purposes. The school board has floated bonds at "excellent rates" for short terms. The Township has not even approached its legal debt limit, and won't for many years.

Determined to preserve what they have, to make the soil even richer if possible, and to keep West Windsor out of "Megalopolis," Planning Board members have, with a professional consultant, worked out the destiny of their community.

To implement their basic decision, they have made a new zone designation — "Research" — and have applied it to the land between Route One, the proposed Princeton Loop Road north of Route One, Alexander Road and Logan Drive. This plot straddles Washington Road just before it enters the Penna Neck traffic complex.

A big bite of land in the southwest corner extending all the way from the East Windsor line to the center of the township, and from the Millstone River on the east roughly two miles west, has been removed from the "Rural" category and placed in Light Industry and Research.

Shopping Center Is Possible. Nearby, at the corner of Hightstown and Rabbit Hill Roads, the Master Plan blocks out a new General Business Zone, hopefully and specifically, for a shopping center. The present General Business Zone along Route One, between Alexander Road and the Western boundary of the Township, has been reduced in size and converted to Light Industry and Research.

Two new neighborhood business zones have been carved out of the map, one at the northwest corner of Village Road, west of North Post Road, and another at the southwest corner of Old Trenton Road and Robbinsville Road.

Village residential zones around Dutch Neck and Edinburg will be extended "modestly" in the words of the Plan. Dutch Neck will acquire about 140 more acres in the residential zone and Edinburg about 220.

Looking ahead, the planners foresee a time when Princeton University will begin to develop its 400 acres of West Windsor land. When campus and "related academic facilities" are proposed, "such development should be looked upon with favor by West Windsor, after careful, constructive review."

Recreation, Too. West Windsor land will continue to be sought by county, state and federal officials for open space and conservation, and the plan takes this into account.

The Assumpink Conservation Lake is on the plan, and areas have been set aside for water conservation along the Millstone River above Millstone Road, and Big Bear Brook above Grovers Mill Pond.

A major Mercer County Park along Assumpink Creek north of Edinburg, and conservation park strips along major drainage-ways, are laid out on the new Master Plan map, and the municipal recreation area being acquired at the Clarksville-Hightstown Roads intersection, will be expanded to the west.

Because West Windsor will soon have too large a high school population for continued acceptance by the present receiving district — that is, the Borough of Princeton and Princeton High School — the plan sets aside a high school site on the southwest corner of Clarksville and Hightstown Roads, the exact location to be pinpointed by the school board.

New Roads Planned. To service all the new research plants, the light industries and the shopping areas West Windsor's Planning Board has suggested new roads, or extensions of old ones.

Board members would like to see Washington Road made one-way-south from Route One to the Pennsylvania Railroad Bridge at Princeton Junction, with a new northbound Washington Road running parallel to Fisher Place (separated by a planted buffer strip) ending at Route One.

The Princeton Loop Road shows on the map, with a new road starting at its western end and continuing south and southwest, to pass downstream from the proposed Assumpink Dam.

A new Robbinsville Road, 1,000 feet west of the present one, would by-pass Edinburg, and continue north to an intersection with the Hightstown Road near the new General Business Zone where that new shopping center may be.

In the new Light Industry and Research Zone, the township would construct internal industrial collector roads, one north and one south of Hightstown Road.

Highlights of the Plan:

• In the 1960 census, there were 1,326 housing units in West Windsor. In April, 1963, there were 187 more.

• Research and industry occupy almost twice as much land as houses — 1,220 acres opposed to 687.

• The largest single land use is for agriculture—11,259 acres, or 65.5 percent of the entire area of the Township. However, "the future of agriculture in West Windsor is at best uncertain. . . . Everything possible should be done to preserve agricultural land uses, but it would be unrealistic to plan, on or for, long-term continuance."

In short, West Windsor may have retained its two-century-old interest in growing plants, but the definition of the words has shifted somewhat with the passing of time.

A PRIMARY CHANCE

Vote Next Tuesday. The chance to write in the name of a favorite presidential candidate, plus a Congressional contest in both parties, will give to the New Jersey primary elections next Tuesday a certain spice not always present in these uncontested contests.

New Jersey delegates attend national conventions unpledged. This means that a presidential write-in vote can be a mandate to the delegate, giving to the Republican party member in particular, a chance to influence both caucus and floor maneuvering at the national convention.

Republicans will elect 10 convention delegates. Democrats 35. Among Republicans on the ballot will be William E. Schluter, Pennington; and Mrs. Josephine Mathey, The Robert B. Meyner, 16 Olden Lane, will be delegate-at-large to the Democratic convention. The former governor will attend with Governor Richard J. Hughes.

Who's in the House? Frank Thompson Jr., Trenton attorney who has been the Fourth District's Congressman for five terms, will be opposed in the Democratic primary by William Sullivan, also of Trenton. Ephraim Tomlinson, Republican, of Medford, who challenged Mr. Thompson unsuccessfully two years ago, has decided to challenge him again. First, however, he must meet James N. Harman of Moorestown, a merchant seaman, in Tuesday's primaries.

In the Freeholder race, Mercer County voters will be without Mrs. Regina Meredith for the first time since 1956. Republicans running for Freeholder without her, will be Lester Allen who was defeated last year; George R. Ganges and Karl Weidel.

Democratic Freeholder candidates, all incumbents, will be Frank J. Black, Charles Kovacs and George J. Sutch. Ulysses Thomas of Trenton, is an independent Freeholder candidate.

There are no primary races in either Borough or Township. The Republican candidates are Councilman Alan W. Carrick and Frederick English; the Democrats will oppose them in the fall with Nicholas Bartolino and Fnoch Durbin. Mayor William L. Wilson, Republican, is his party's choice for Township Committee, with the Democrats advancing William Sleane.

Polls will be open on Tuesday from 7 a. m. to 8 p. m.

AFTER 35 YEARS
Mrs. Schannel to Retire. At Tuesday's meeting of Mayor and Borough Council, Mrs. Alice H. Schannel, for 35 years a busy, gentle and universally beloved Princeton Borough employee announced in a communication that she is planning to retire from her post on July 1. "To call her an 'employee' is an understatement of her unique importance in Princeton municipal affairs for these many years," said one observer after her resignation had been announced. "Alice Schannel has done so much so well for the Borough that the title 'Mrs. Princeton' is the one she deserves."

The news of Mrs. Schannel's retirement was acknowledged with regret by Mayor and Council. An appropriate resolution in gratitude of her long, loyal tour of duty will be prepared for adoption at a subsequent council meeting, Mayor Patterson stated.

In another matter to come before Mayor and Council on Tuesday, the request by Charles LaPlaca for a use variance to permit the construction of a 40-unit apartment project just off Harrison Street North was referred to the Borough Planning Board for an advisory opinion. The project had been approved at the March meeting of the Borough Zoning Board and then forwarded to Mayor and Council with a recommendation for its endorsement.

The proposal by Mr. LaPlaca was taken under advisement by the council. This was done in order to get the planning board's opinion of the project's suitability and to allow council members time to study the transcript of the proposal as approved by the zoning board.

Other highlights of Tuesday's meeting included:

- Introduction of an ordinance to rezone both sides of Witherspoon Street from the intersection of Witherspoon with Green Street on the west side and with Wiggins Street on the east side in a northerly direction to Quarry Street. Rezoning would change that portion of Witherspoon Street from a business to a residential classification.

- A unanimous decision not to rezone Bank Street for apartment use only, based on a recommendation by the Planning Board that no change be made.

FIRST AID SQUAD SENIOR AND FRIEND: Among those taking part in Sunday's dedication of the Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad's new headquarters on Harrison Street North were Elmer Rodweller (left) charter member and oldest active member of the squad, and Judge Arthur S. Lane.

- The passage of an ordinance to permit the recodification of existing and future ordinances.

- The approval of a request that the encroachment on Borough property in the amount of a few inches of the new English Shop building be allowed to continue without alteration. The encroachment has existed ever since the structure was built more than 50 years ago.

- The announcement of tentative plans to establish an animal shelter in conjunction with the Township and the Small Animal Rescue League, on River Road.

- Endorsement and support of the High School Choir's proposed trip to music festivals in Europe this summer — along with the suggestion that everyone who could should contribute to the fund to help meet the expenses of the trip.

TAXES HERE TOO HIGH?
Not So, Report Shows. One of Princeton's favorite indoor sports is complaining about $364; Lawrence Township, $362; Ewing Township, $329; Washington Township, $323; East Windsor Township, $309; Princeton Borough, $290; and West Windsor Township, $230.

Mr. Carver also noted that all of the municipalities except Trenton have completed property revaluation surveys in which professional assessors compute the fair market value of all property. A fixed percentage (100% in Princeton Township, 33.3% in Princeton Borough) is then applied to the market value to arrive at the assessed value.

The net result of Mr. Carver's computations suggests one thing: Princetonians can't reasonably complain about high property taxes, but they can (if they are homeowners) be well satisfied with the high value of the property in which

May flowers will be in abundance this spring — the welcome product of all the excess April showers. If it keeps up at this pace, rainfall for the month could set a record.

Sunshine will replace the rain for a while, the Man promised, with temperatures averaging well above normal. However, he couldn't guarantee that the skies would be fair right through the weekend. "April can be awfully wet," he gurgled.

they have invested — for that's what makes taxes seem "high."

THE FACE OF PRINCETON

Board Passes on Projects. The division and disposition of land in Princeton Township occupied the Planning Board Monday night. There were two "go aheads" and one "no."

• Seventeen quarter-acre lots between Jefferson and Mt. Lucas Roads, just off Valley, will now be developed by Queenston Builders as a result of planning Board approval. This is the southern portion of Horatio W. Turner's "Mangrove" property, once in the news as the proposed site for a garden apartment.

• Five two-acre lots in a development called "Stuart Hills" will now be sold by Princeton Country Day School of the Sacred Heart, as a result of the second Planning Board nod. The lots straddle the intersection of the New Great Road (as yet unbuilt) and the new Stuart Road in the northwestern part of Sacred Heart's Great Road property.

It will be another year before Stuart is completed through to Cherry Hill, the Board said on Monday night, and possibly its completion may await construction of the New Great Road. The Township has decided not to realign the Great Road piecemeal, but to wait until the two projected sections of the realignment can be done at once.

• Forty-six lots, including 16 one-acre non-conformers, will have to be planned anew before the Planning Board will say "yes." The lots, on the Princeton Pike west of Stony Brook bridge, were formerly owned by the Virginia Construction Company and their size was the subject of lengthy litigation between that company and the Township.

The Township, having won the battle and established the authority of its "no" where non-conforming lots are concerned, is in no hurry to turn around and say "yes" to non-conforming lots on exactly the same piece of land.

Henderson Talbot, the developer, told the Board he wanted to bring sewer lines into the area, long plagued by pollution problems, and needed more lots to foot the bill.

TUNE CHANNEL 13

To See Mayor Patterson. Next Tuesday at 9 a.m. on Channel 13, the mayor and the governor will sit down for a chat.

Mayor Henry Patterson, vice-president of the New Jersey Conference of Mayors, is one of four mayors who will join Governor Richard Hughes on the program. "Profile — New Jersey."

In the course of the program, which has already been taped, the mayors and the governor will discuss several aspects of state and municipal government, including Governor Hughes' proposed Department of Community Affairs, which would serve as a collection point for problems like urban renewal, municipal planning and the like.

"I didn't say too much while the program was being taped," Mayor Patterson told his Tuesday press conference, "but the mayor of Newark said he had the best fire department in the country . . . well, I couldn't let THAT statement go by!"

Governor Hughes then replied, feelingly, that as the Princeton resident of a 250-year-old house, he hoped that Mayor Patterson's praise of the Princeton Fire Department was well-founded.

When the governor asked each mayor what his community needed, Mayor Patterson replied, "A by-pass, so that trucks won't go by the governor's mansion!"

Should the Borough require people to register before they pass out leaflets on Palmer Square, or ask householders for charitable contributions, door-to-door?

"I'm not at all sure we ought to, and I have to be

"MUCH ADO" ENDS SERIES
At McCarter. The setting is a Spanish garden, resplendent of orange trees there they are, on either side of the stage, enclosed with louvered gates as mysterious as an eye behind a fan (there are some of those, too), set about the arabesqued furnishings and silhouetted from time to time against the deep blue of a Spanish midnight sky.

"It's 'Much ADO About Nothing,' in a limpid and laughing production designed by William D. Roberts and Gilbert V. Hemsley to delight the eye and embellished by John Duffy with guitars, castanets and a fine stomping tango to delight the ear.

The play brings to a merry close the series of five Shakespeare works offered by McCarter as a gesture of homage to the playwright on his 400th birthday.

It is, quite probably, the best of the five productions. Aside from the entrancing set and the transformation it works upon that Festival stage, "Much ADO" has an open and spacious air quite unlike the atmosphere surrounding the other four productions.

William Francisco, the director, has set a pleasant, ambulating pace, which becomes too fast only now and then.

This means that the language, so vital in this play of words, comes across sharp, clean and straight to the mark.

"Much ADO" Like "Shrew." "Much ADO" is "Taming of the Shrew" grown up. It keeps at their distance from one another Beatrice and Benedick, two young people full of pride, wit and high intelligence who are determined never to fall in love, least of all with one another.

Shakespeare contrives his play so that they do, of course, but even with capitulation their merry verbal war goes on because, as Benedick tells Beatrice, "thou and I are too wise to woo peaceably."

Beneath their sparring, as a subplot, Shakespeare gives us lovely Nero and her Claudio, the Claudio who loves her but believes without the most shocking calumny against her.

In this production, Benedick and Beatrice are Robert Blackburn and Brita Brown. Miss Brown is at her best in roles like Beatrice or Katharine, roles well-suited to the angularity of her personality and delivery. The intellectual Beatrice, whose most ardent desire is to be a man so that she might defend the slandered Hero, is just the part.

Robert Blackburn succeeds in making Benedick different from Petruchio, although the technical problems inherent in establishing that difference in a cold sweat through many a rehearsal.

Garden Scene Is Delightful. Sometimes Mr. Blackburn races, but usually he is easy to understand, and he unfolds the lines with real appreciation for their wit. His garden scene, in which he overhears who is repudiated at the altar the words he is intended to by Claudio, surely the most overhear — how Beatrice is priggish and contemptible swooning for love of him — is young man Shakespeare ever played out with a wonderful sense for the comic, in a style broad enough to convey the absurdity of the situation yet sophisticated enough to show us that Benedick is a man of the world and not merely — though he certainly is one — a dupe.

As Don Pedro, who starts the plot machinery that will convince Beatrice and Benedick that each is dying for love of the other, Mario Siletti is once again suavely successful. Edward Earle is the villainously dyspeptic Don John who slanders poor Hero. Monroe Wade, making his first appearance with the repertory company slips easily into the robes of Leonato, uncle to Beatrice and father to Hero.

Angelo D'Ambrosio is exquisite as Hero, the innocent

We have left to the last the comedy buffoons of "Much ADO" because in this production, they are a puzzle.

Constable Dogberry is one of Shakespeare's marvelous dolls, a bourgeois pomposity whose contortions of language produce malaprops that are still funny even today. But Clarence Felder, whose comic assignments have been among the triumphs of the season, misses with Dogberry. He underscores the pomposity of the character by speaking the lines deliberately, and this slow delivery serves the additional purpose of underscoring the malapropisms, too, so that the audiences never misses a line.

Effort is Obvious. And so you laugh because the lines are amusing, but that is all. You suspect that Mr. Felder is striving too hard for the visual effects of pomposity — the padded stomach, the solemn strut — when actually the lines themselves serve very well to carry the load.

Thomas Barbour as Verges, the Headborough who is Dogberry's right hand, is infinitely more successful. In startling contrast to his Richard III, he gives us in this play a tall piece of spaghetti (a stovepipe hat makes him even taller) waving ineffectual bony hands and peering vaguely at a world that is totally beyond his comprehension.

For some reason, Mr. Francisco has directed these two and the bumpkins of The Watch in a curious scene interrupted half way through by a long break — about two minutes — in which all the characters fall asleep. Dogberry finally awakens, picks up his lines where he left off and the scene progresses, but damage has been done.

As a low comedy interlude, designed to show that the bumpkins middle classes can play with words too, just like their betters, this mishapen scene is merely an embarrassment.

By and large, however, the business Mr. Francisco has assigned to his cast, is imaginative and bright: Beatrice the eavesdropper, eager to hear more and moving across the stage behind her orange tree like Birnam Wood moving to Dunsinane . . . Verges the Headborough, poking about with his absurd little umbrella . . . delicious love-scenes between Hero and Claudio played "aside" while other characters are speaking . . . a circular tango, men moving one direction, ladies another, playing with words all the while.

There is only one more chance to see "Much Ado" — this Sunday at 3 — and we urge you to keep the date.

A CAST OF 1,000's! "Showboat" Almost Here. That cast of 115 is still maneuvering in rehearsal at McCart Theatre, getting the good showboat "Cotton Blossom" ready for the opening of Jerome Kern's "Showboat" on Thursday, April 30 at 7:30 p.m.

Subsequent performances of "Showboat" will be given on Friday and Saturday evenings, May 1 and 2 at 8:30 and Saturday afternoon at 2:30.

As previously announced, many talented Princeton residents have graciously emerged from temporary retirement to portray various roles in this magnificent P.J. & B. production.

Stuart Duncan will be Cap'n Andy, joined by Betty Fursell as Parthy, Greg Farrell as Frank, Debbie Truxal as Magnolia, Joan Lucas as Ellie, Joan Bishop as Julie, Ashby Adams as Ravenal and Richard Huber as Steve.

Hosea Williams, as Joe, will be the man who sings "Ol' Man River," probably the most famous song Jerome Kern ever wrote. Elizabeth Pergerson will make her P. J. & B. debut as Queenie.

Others in the large and talented cast are Etienne and "Cobbles" Sturhahn, E. N. Muller, Peter Boardman, Douglas Langston, Bruce Raymond, David Parnes, Jay Kerr, Parker Hayden and Eric Endersby. And, for the first time on any P. J. & B. stage, Princeton's "Palmer Squares".

ANOUILH PLAY TO COME "L'Alouette," France's Treteau de Paris company, now in the course of its sixth consecutive coast-to-coast tour of American campuses, will stop at Princeton on Tuesday, April 28 for a special matinee performance of Anouilh's "L'Alouette" at 2:30 in McCart Theatre.

An earlier school matinee at 10:30 a.m. has already been sold out. There will be no evening performance because the cast of "Showboat" has signed up the McCart stage for dress rehearsals.

The production of "L'Alou-ette" that will come to McCart Theatre was directed and supervised by M. Anouilh himself. In the four months of its tour, it has played almost 100 performances on 65 campuses.

With Julie Harris in the title role, "L'Alouette," or "The Lark," enjoyed a successful English-language Broadway run several seasons ago. In the present production, Luce Vincent will be seen as Joan of Arc.

PECK RIDIN' IN

As Gunfighter" in "The Gunfighter," which will play a one-night stand at McCart Theatre Tuesday at 8, Gregory Peck portrays a quite — livin' man whose reputation as the deadliest gun in the west gives him no peace, no peace at all.

"Gunfighter" continues McCart's spring series on the Western in Films, and replaces "Bad Day at Black Rock" which is not available at the moment.

"BLACKS" COMING

With New York Company. Off-Broadway's longest running dramatic hit, "The Blacks," will make a one-night appearance in McCart next Monday with the present New York company on the boards. Curtain time is 8:30. Tickets are still available at the McCart box-office.

Jean Genet's play is about to celebrate its fourth year in New York. "Probably the greatest work of art ever produced on the color question," is the comment made by Time magazine. "It is stunning to be reminded of the blunt, garish compulsive power of the dramatic impulse at its most primitive level," comes from Walter Kerr of the Herald Tribune.

Bobby Dean Hooks, Morris Erby, Philip Lindsay, Jay J. Riley and Louise Stubbs are featured in the cast. Mr. Hooks, who left the company and came back, appeared in the recent revival of Tennessee Williams' "The Milk Train Doesn't Stop Here Anymore" and the Broadway production of Brecht's "Arturo Ui." Mr. Smith was "Cowboy" in —Continued on Page 8

IT'S NEW To Us

FLING WIDE THE HUMUS Plan. Then Plant. "What are the most popular shrubs in Princeton?" we asked Mr. Obal, on a visit the other day to his garden market on Alexander Street.

The most popular plants, if you can straighten this one out, are the most unusual—the ones nobody else has. Also, because there is so much heavy shade in Princeton (tell that to the owner of a new development house), shrubs like the Japanese hollies and the rhododendrons are in heavy demand, year after year.

This spring, Mr. Obal has some delightful newcomers, starting with a little dwarf spruce, now an endearing ten inches tall perfect in every miniature detail, and scheduled to be only five feet tall at the end of 25 years!

Use it for accent planting, even for foundation planting.

if you're adventurous. The brother of this dwarf spruce is a dwarf hemlock which will only be six feet tall in 20 years.

One of the new juniper strains at the market is low, and prismatic. Other new varieties are greener—or bluer—than the standard juniper green.

Mr. Obal is also pleased with his Atlas cedars, the "blue" cedars you may have seen on a ramble in Marquand Park. This is a real tree, not a dwarf, and it will reach 50 feet. It has an erratic growth pattern which can add considerable dramatic interest to your property, if you plant the tree in a favorable spot. It needs lots of room to grow, and a background to show off its splendor.

"Blue Peter" and "Catalode" are new in the rhododendron department at Obal's. Both are hybrids, of course, and both hardy enough to survive a climate which is not exactly the rhododendron's favorite ambience. "Blue Peter" is pale blue with a dark throat, and the Catalode is large and white.

For planting, Mr. Obal recommends a new mulch called "Right Dress," made of licorice roots, and he suggests you use it around those newly planted rhododendrons, or any shallow-rooted plant. It won't "compact" the way peat moss does, it holds moisture better and lasts longer. Sixty-five pounds for $2.95.

"Start your collection now," advises the ad for Wilkinson "swords," just as though they were diamonds. Which they are, very nearly, being hard, brilliant and expensive. Wilkinson has made swords for generations and still likes to fondle the term, but these, of course, are Wilkinson garden-tools.

There is an edging shear ($17.95) with a curved heel to allow variations in cutting depth, and the flexibility to work in a 1 1/2-inch space. It has "floating bearings," so that you aren't exhausted at the end of a session.

A lawn shear ($21.95) goes where the mower can't. A Ladies' shear ($11.50) is dainty and easy to handle. She'll carry it along with the flower gatherer ($5.95) and the pocket pruner ($3.95). When you're through with the long-handled pruner ($12.95), can she borrow it for a moment?

STYLE, MULTI-FACETED
Try Red Baro. We have always been fascinated by The Red Barn's success in combining flair and high style with country classics. (Red Barn is on Route 206 near Belle Mead.)

In this minute showroom, you can find within inches of each other, a sinuous white arnel shift imprinted with outrageous starfish, 15 inches across, in coral, orange and yellow—and a quiet classic print with gathered skirt, pan collar and roll-up sleeves.

And don't think the same woman wouldn't buy both, either!

Mr. Mort has sent to Red Barn an arnel crepe in palest sage green with wide box pleats hanging all the way down from the boat neck to the hem. Stitched from the neckline, the pleats break softly at thigh level. A white dress, similar in design, has unstitched pleats and an optional sash.

That Polka-dot Bikini

Well, the one hanging on the wall has polka-dots, anyway. The nature of the background is such that very few polka-dots are in evidence, but at least there are one or two.

We are speaking of the Bikini collection at Red Barn Casuals (casual!), a collection which arrived the other day in a match-box and is now on display waiting for warmer days.

It isn't everywhere in these parts that you can buy a Bikini, as you are well aware. Red Barn, with its cozy, peppermint-in-the-window air is not quite where you'd expect to find a Bikini, but there they are.

The one on the wall is a sun-drenched turquoise blue with white dots. Go on—we dare you.

In quite a different vein, Mr. Mort produces royal blue linen with short raglan sleeves on the sashed overblouse. Comes in pink, too.

Powder blue arnel crepe has a back full of box pleats, traversed at a low line by a broad back-only belt. In front, the dress has a demure pointed collar and four big, blue pearl buttons.

For a long time now, skirts have been merely unadorned tubes, but now they are rebelling against anonymity. Here's one in a dacon and cotton "denim," light spice in color, with a deep front pleat that has a three-inch brown grosgrain ribbon on each side, extending all the way up to the narrow brown grosgrain around the waist. The overblouse is short and slightly fitted.

A companion ensemble is grey green. The straight skirt has a seam down the front rather like the placket of a the original New York production of Jack Gelber's "The Connection," and Mr. Riley has appeared in "Carmen Jones," "Peter Pan," "Native Son," "Finian's Rainbow" and "Mr. Johnson."

JUGGLERS ALL

Five Plays in Three Days. Between the hours of noon, this Friday and the end of the afternoon on Sunday, the McCarter Theatre repertory company will have played five different Shakespeare plays.

"This is the first time our schedule has ever permitted us to attempt a 'tour de force' of this kind, and I feel it is a rare chance for our audience to see the repertory system in maximum operation," said Arthur Lithgow, executive director of McCarter, in comment upon the full weekend.

The juggle will begin with a school matinee of "Richard III," this Friday, followed on Friday evening by "Othello." Saturday afternoon, the company will play "Taming of the Shrew" followed by "Romeo and Juliet" on Saturday night. A Sunday afternoon performance of "Much Ado About Nothing" will conclude the weekend.

Just to show what the weekend will mean for individual actors in the company — Robert Blackburn will start off with a minor role, the Duke of Clarence in "Richard III," on Friday afternoon. After the matinee, he will change into the robes of Othello for Friday night's performance.

Saturday afternoon, he will be Petruchio in "Taming of the Shrew," relaxing that evening with a minor role, that of the prince, in "Romeo and Juliet." Then on Sunday afternoon, he will be back among the stars, as Benedick in "Much Ado."

Angela D'Ambrosia will be the Queen Elizabeth in "Richard III" on Friday afternoon and Desdemona on Friday night.

ADULT WESTERN: Hugh Griffith plays the role of Squire Western in "Tom Jones," now at the Prince and the Garden

Saturday afternoon, she will be Bianca in "Taming of the Shrew," and Saturday night she will be Juliet, Sunday afternoon, she will end the weekend as Ilro in "Much Ado."

DICK GREGORY BOOKED

For SNCC Show. Comedian Dick Gregory will appear Thursday, April 23, at the Garden Theatre, sponsored by the Friends of the Student Non-violent Coordinating Committee. His hour-long show, beginning at 4:30, will benefit SNCC voter-registration efforts in the south and the SNCC Mississippi Summer Project.

Tickets, at $3, are available at the Princeton University Store and at Male's Book Shop.

"PROLOGUE TO GLORY"

At PCD This Weekend. E. T. Cink's "Prologue to Glory" will be presented this Friday and Saturday at Princeton Country Day School. The play is based on Lincoln's life in New Salem.

Bill Kehoe stars as Lincoln and David Macleod plays the part of Anne Rutledge. The cast includes Hale Andrews, Clifford Ayers, Ray Colcord, Guy Erdman, Richard Hill, Charles Katzenbach, Steve Lane, Fraser Macleod, Peter Roberts, Donald Woodbridge, David Battle, George Brinkerhoff, Tom Gaman, Harold Jaeger, Stowe Tattersall and Matt Young.

Also, Joseph Chandler, Edward Ford, David French, Christopher Laughlin, Donald Pickering, Henderson Talbot, Peter Samson, George Sayen, James Stover, Chipp Cruise, James Young, Peter Ene and Mark Lane.

Herbert McNenny, Headmaster, is director. The scenery, designed by Gary Lott, has been built by Jeff Delano, Jeffrey Griggs, Aubrey Huston, Leighton Laughlin, John Meyers and Mike Simko.

Mr. Robert Smyth is director. Continued on Page 10

It's New To Us

—Continued from Page 7— back zipper. The edges have been pressed back to reveal a deep avocado green ribbon stitched, like a zipper, underneath. The effect is that of three slim ovals of deep green, end to end, down the front of the skirt. Overblouse is boat-necked, with back buttons.

THE DAZZLE OF SPRING

In Wallpapers, Fabrics. What they like about spring at Home Furnishings (Weather-spoon Street), is that spring pours forth all those wonderful, wild, brilliant, crackling colors that fabric designers have been working on all winter.

A lot of these match, or coordinate, in both wallpapers and fabrics, so that you can live inside a shell of color and pattern if you want to. One kitchen, now on the Home Furnishings drawing-board will have a ceiling paper in white with orange and olive green flowers, widely-spaced, and a dado of orange—well, they look like quail to us—emerging from the rushes.

These papers come in any color and we mean "any" because the manufacturer will turn them out in the shade and color you want, just for you.

Another paper is white with splashy poppies in reds and oranges (pudples too, as we recall), and another is gold-orange checks, which look as though a child had painted them with a wide brush, water-color and an uncertain hand.

Schumacher's spring wallpapers are, many of them, pure vinyl. But they are about as kitchen-bathroomy as a damask hanging. One, with urns and garlands, is white on white—a vinyl impregnated fabric.

Another, "Narbada," is blocked out in squares, and looks for all the world like a rubbing from temple stones. Greeny-gold medallions, half seen through a haze—terrible. "Nebula" is a drift of drunken snowflakes in silver on white. "Imperial Coins" is gold or silver, on white, the coins, like Narbada's medallions, seen through the shadow of the past. And all vinyl, if you please.

For a summer fabric, you couldn't choose anything more exquisite than the cream-colored French batiste with its fine little sprays of flowers and poised butterflies. It comes in a heavier fabric which you can use for drapes, and also in a wallpaper, as deliciously French as anything you could imagine.

But if your home is early American, you'll want the four-square appeal of a claret medallion pattern etched against a deep cream ground.

As we looked through the pile of new spring designs from the fabric house of Strohheim and Romann, contemplating the uses of a black scroll and flower print on natural linen, the Home Furnishings designer told us, with an amused lilt in her eye, that customers buy these fabrics for shifts, as well as slip-covers. In fact, what is a shift anyway, but a slip cover?

Why cook? . . . Treat your family to dinner at Viedt's . . . delicious, hot, appetizing food . . . at prices you can afford . . . daily specials to spur your appetite . . . ("Specials" at luncheon, too) . . . See you this evening!

Startling? Here are more figures to consider:

Twenty-one thousand children in a single land overseas will get hot school lunches daily.

One hundred and ten thousand children in thirty countries overseas will be helped to go to school.

Forty thousand youngsters in children's homes in these same countries will get all, or a good part, of their care thanks to the United Jewish Appeal.

We could go on. But figures hardly tell the human story—the wonder, the sheer joy, of saving a child's life and of building it.

In all the ways UJA helps—resettlement, relief, medical care, training—it's children first. It goes without saying, they must have first chance for lives of freedom and opportunity.

A wise man said: "Give a little love to a child, and you will get a great deal back."

Yes, give love and help and hope. What will you get back? It might be a better world.

Give to the regular United Jewish Appeal—generously. Give again—to the UJA Special Fund.

IN 1964, UJA MUST GIVE LIFESAVING AID TO 751,000

IN ISRAEL—Help Immigrants—new and old.

Give newcomers initial aid . . . and housing.

Absorb immigrants of previous years including:

- Aged and handicapped immigrants yearning for renewed usefulness.
- Young people in need of training.
- Immigrant farm settlers struggling for economic freedom.
- Unskilled newcomers in development towns.

IN EUROPE, OTHER LANDS—Sustain those in need.

Help with food, shelter, medical care, training.

Assist those who can emigrate to free lands.

IN USA—Aid and resettle newcomers arriving here.

shown," Mayor Patterson commented. "I hope anyone with ideas on the subject will pass them on to me."

Mayor Patterson said there had been an increasing "rash" of these solicitations, and that officials were afraid residents might be victimized.

"Maybe the person who comes to your front door hopes to find nobody at home, so he can go around and break in the back door," Mayor Patterson said.

He pointed out the difference between house-to-house canvassing, and actual commercial selling, and he said the Borough might decide that salesmen, out for profit, must register and even be fingerprinted.

"One thing I'm worried about is that people who espouse unpopular causes might suspect our motives," the mayor said. "We're not talking about whether we agree with what's in a leaflet — and we certainly aren't talking about 'permission.' We just wonder whether it might not be a good idea to ask people to register, so that the police

SPEEDERS ARE FINED
In Borough Court, Donald Reed, 20, Princeton Avenue, Rocky Hill; Sylvia Nichols, 42, 28 Longview Drive; and Barry S. Davison, 22, Carter Road, were fined Monday for speeding by Borough Magistrate Theodore T. Tams Jr. Mr. Davison denied the charge. Their fines ranged from $14 to $18.

Richard Daniels, 19, was fined $15 for improper display of plates and a second $15 for a late inspection violation. Under the state's Point System, Richard H. Johanson, 22, Belle Mead, had his license revoked one year, while Joseph E. Mount, 21, Cranbury, lost his for three months.

In criminal court, Gershone White, 41, 371 Mt. Lucas Road, was fined $45 for using loud and abusive language in the vicinity of the Princeton YMCA. He pleaded not guilty. The complainant was Patrolman Olindo Carnevale of the Princeton Township police.

Chester L. Bowser, 18, 25 Green Street, was fined $15 after pleading guilty to assault. He was charged with slugging a 16-year-old youth last month as he was walking on Nassau Street near Palmer Square.

In a final action, Magistrate Tams referred William Saunders to a Mercer County grand jury, after Saunders waived a preliminary hearing on four charges of larceny and one of atrocious assault. He was released in $1500 bail.

RUMMAGE SALE MONDAY
At Harrison Firehouse, infinite variety is always the theme of the Hospital Aid Committee's annual spring Rummage Sale, and this year, the variety is just as various as before.

Stoves, television sets, old phonograph records, aprons and canvas chairs—all and more, will be on sale at the Harrison Street Firehouse.

Fantasia (through Saturday) is, of course, a re-reissue of that Mickey Mouse musical which Walt Disney and his little men put together with Leopold Stokowski and his big men. The idea, as you recall was to sugarcoat "good" music for the uninitiated by having Disneyesque illustrated devices dance out the theme on the screen.

It was considered a brave, avant garde attempt to bring off a difficult assignment. And it turned out to be a total success.

Since its first release, late in the 1930's, it has been reissued at least once — back about 1954. Now it's making the tour again, and if you haven't seen it before, you should. If you have seen it before, you may well want to see it again anyway. It wears extremely well.

Man's Favorite Sport? (Sunday through Tuesday). According to this small comedy's theory, man's favorite sport is not what you'd think. It's fly-casting, not girl-watching.

And, as comedy, it's strictly a minnow. Rock Hudson, an Abercrombie & Fitch salesman, unbelievably knows so little about fishing that, to him, a fin is nothing more than a five dollar bill. He gets caught in a fishing contest against will and without skill.

The usual, predictable gags are there: fish-hook caught in pants, the overturned boat, the "Help me, I can't swim!" and stuff like that. Isaak Walton wouldn't have been amused and neither, we imagine, is Abercrombie's. That goes for you, too.

THE GARDEN AND PRINCE

Tom Jones (now showing) is the magnificent, bawdy, lusty, boisterous, beautiful, call-it-what-you-will movie of Henry Fielding's 18th Century Classic, "The History of Tom Jones, a Foundling." The film is a far-out, hilariously cockeyed, delightfully outrageous picture of life as it was then and even could be now.

Fielding's original is, and will continue to be, rated as the greatest comic novel in the language. Now Tony Richardson's movie adaptation has made it into a film which is, and also will continue to be, an absolutely magnificent cinema entertainment.

It's a triumph. Run, don't walk, to the nearest entrance — and have a good time. You can't miss.

MAJOR CRASH BRINGS ONLY MINOR INJURIES: The outlines of this 1955 convertible were considerably altered when it snapped a telephone pole early Sunday morning on the crest of Breuere's Hill, Route 206. In contrast the driver, William J. Stryker, 22, 6 Fisher Avenue was thrown clear and escaped with nothing more serious than abrasions. See Topics of the Town. (Township Police Photo)

AUTO BOX SCORE: 6 HITS

Bridge, 2 Poles, 3 Cars The Mercer Road Bridge, two poles and three parked cars were among the stationary objects hit last week by errant Princeton area drivers.

The latest driver to discover that the mixture of speed, wet pavement and the Mercer Bridge is highly dangerous is Samuel B. Adams, 25, 100 Stockton Street. As he approached the entrance to the bridge at 9:20 Monday morning, Mr. Adams told Township Police that his car went into a side skid, forcing it into the opposite lane. He estimated that he was driving about 10 miles per hour at the time.

His car continued on into the side of the bridge, damaging the vehicle's entire front end. In making no charges, the investigating officer reported that the approach to the bridge was wet and extremely slippery. Mr. Adams escaped injury.

Also on Monday morning, Mrs. Robert W. Beller, 32, Franklin Park, lost control as she was driving on Valley Road, when a bee flew into her car.

According to the police report, Mrs. Beller became excited and swerved right into the rear of a parked car belonging to George E. Murphy of Skillman. The impact forced the Murphy car into a second parked car, owned by Delores P. Baker, 150 Valley Road. Both parked cars were 1964 models.

Police made no charges against Mrs. Beller who was slightly injured. Her car, its front end damaged, was towed away.

Total Loss. A spectacular single-car mishap in which the driver somehow escaped serious injury took place early Sunday morning at 1:40 on the crest of Breuere's Hill, Route 206.

At the top of the hill, across from the driveway leading to the Hilltop Farm, a convertible driven by William J. Stryker, 22, 6 Fisher Avenue, left the right side of the road. It traveled 152 feet along the shoulder, snapped a telephone pole as if it were a toothpick, and continued on for another 156 feet after hitting the pole. Mr. Stryker's car was twisted and bent into virtual scrap metal. He sustained abrasions of the groin and right side. Police made no charges.

Another single car accident in the early hours of the morning happened Monday on Chambers Street.

Andrew Teague Jr., 31, 97 Leigh Avenue, told Borough police that he dozed off while driving at 3 a.m. on Chambers. His car hit a public service pole and traveled some 37 feet more, before hitting a "No Parking" sign. Mr. Teague received a one-inch cut on his chin.

Police ticketed him for careless driving and as an unlicensed driver. His car was damaged in the front and side.

Treated and Released. A Cranbury mother and her two small children were treated at Princeton Hospital and released Tuesday following an accident at noon on Harrison Street.

They are Mrs. W. James Shoenthal, 22, S. Main Street, Cranbury, abrasions of both knees and right wrist and elbow; Katrina, age 3½, abrasions of the chin; and Melissa, 13 months. A precautionary x-ray taken of a large contusion on Melissa's forehead proved to be negative.

According to the Township police report, Mrs. Shoenthal was trying to clean her windshield and lost control. Her foreign car swerved into the rear of a car parked in front of 269 Harrison. Police made no charges but the front end, hood, windshield, and right front door of Mrs. Shoenthal's car were damaged and it was towed away.

"NUMBER, PLEASE?" Old Telephones at Museum. A three-month "treasure hunt" by two employees of the New Jersey Bell Telephone Co. has resulted in a private, two-station hook-up for youngsters who visit the Princeton Junior Museum in Borough Hall. The working magneto telephone system, with crank-operated bells, has recently been installed in the museum.

The two telephone company engineers, Jerry Jones and W. H. Bolz started the hunt for an antique table-model telephone to match the 60-year-old wall phone presented to the museum by two Princeton children earlier this year. "We have several near misses before we finally found the kind we wanted," Mr. Jones says.

Reconstruction of the two phones into a working system meant finding parts and rebuilding them. All Crosby, installation foreman for New Jersey Bell, took charge of the installing, and Elmer Dietz, manager of the company's Princeton office, made arrangements for the hook-up.

TO GIVE PAGEANT

On Negro Contribution. A pageant, "Contributions of the Negro in America's Democracy," will be presented at 8 p.m. this Thursday at the Witherspoon School. The Friendship Club of Princeton is sponsor.

"We felt that 'In White America' gave a negative view," Mrs. Elizabeth Herron, the program director said. "We want to give a positive view for our children, to teach them pride."

Donation is $1. All proceeds go to the Scholarship Fund of the Club. Mrs. Bertha H. Brandon is president.

TO GIVE LATIN AWARDS

For 21st Year. The annual Latin Honor Awards program and tea will be held for the 21st time next Thursday at 3:15 in the Princeton High School auditorium.

Professor Jotham Johnson, head of the classics department at New York University and president of the Archaeological Institute of America, will be the guest speaker.

The program includes remarks by Superintendent of Schools Chester R. Stroup and Kenneth E. Michael, principal, the singing of J. S. Bach's "Sicut erat" from Cantata 191 by the high school choir directed by Thomas Hilbish, and awards presentation by Mrs. Alan W. Richards, department head, assisted by Mrs. Sigurd T. Peterson and Frederick R. Carman.

SEVEN HYDRANTS OPENED
Police Flush Culprits. Three Princeton University students have been charged as disorderly persons after they opened, full-force, at least seven fire hydrants late Monday evening in the vicinity of the University campus.

They are Lawrence J. Stupski, 18, 612 Laughlin Hall; Jerry Ingram, 19, 104 Pyne Hall; and Jay F. Higgins, 18, 241 Witherspoon Hall. Released in custody of University officials, they are scheduled to appear before Borough Magistrate Theodore T. Tams Jr. on Monday.

Lt. Francis Maguire said that the desk officer was swamped with calls reporting the opened hydrants. Among the hydrants turned on were those located at: University University Place across from Joline Hall; Washington Road and Ivy Lane; College Road and University Place; University Place and Dickinson Street; Dickinson and Alexander Street; and Alexander and Mercer Street. Police said all had been opened between 11:30 p.m. and 12:30 a.m.

Sergeant Michael Carnevale and Patrolmen Arthur Jackson and Russell Shangle were dispatched in two patrol cars. Within an hour, according to Lt. Maguire, they had apprehended the students in the vicinity of University Place. Stupski, they said, had a large Stilson wrench in his possession.

The previous night, at 10 p.m., the hydrant at University and Edwards Place had been opened full force. Police said they believe it was the work of the same students. At the time, the water company was notified and it turned off the hydrant.

AFTER HIGH SCHOOL . . .
PTA to Discuss Careers. The Princeton High School PTA will discuss "Career Opportunities after High School" with a panel of three speakers Tuesday at 8 in the High School cafeteria.

The panel includes Ted Hill, personnel director at McGraw-Hill; Mrs. L. V. Silvester, Youth Employment Service; and a representative from the Air Force recruiting office.

THERE'S MERIT IN ELECTRONICS: This picture immortalizes an historic moment: the presentation of the first electronics merit badge in the history of the Boy Scouts of America. Robert W. Sarnoff, chairman of the Board of NBC, and vice-president of the Greater New York Council of the Boy Scouts of America, is shown giving the new award to Kipp Heacock, 38 Wittmer Court. Kipp received the award in behalf of 31 other Scouts in ceremonies held at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel.

NEW AWARD GIVEN

To Princeton Scouts. The electronics merit badge, newest award in Scouting, was presented last week to eight members of Boy Scout Troop 88, Princeton Methodist Church.

The presentation was made by Robert Sarnoff, National Broadcasting Company chairman and vice-president of the Greater New York Council, BSA, at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel. Recipients were: Jack Bleacher, Joel Breeze, Allen Dower, Tom Frisbie, Tom Gehrty, Bruce Hook, Dick Keizer and Paul Stange.

They were accompanied by Scoutmaster William R. Breeze, Assistant Scoutmasters Harvey O. Hook and Edward L. Kern, and T. D. Bowker, electronic merit badge counselor.

Troop 88's participation in the electronics program was announced at the Troop's 21st anniversary banquet last February by Dr. George H. Brown, vice-president of research and engineering at RCA Laboratories.

Ten lectures and laboratory sessions, held at RCA, were led by Mr. Bowker, W. D. Houghton and R. F. Sanford of the David Sarnoff Research Center technical staff.

Nine scouts from Troop 43 and five from Troop 66 also attended the New York meeting. Members of Troop 66 who took part in the RCA Laboratories study program included Ken Nelson, Dave Skibbins, Steve Raleigh, John Reidel and Carl Trickett Jr.

GRAND OPENING!
For English Shop. A two-day Grand Opening, with orchids to the first 100 women who attend each day, will introduce to Princeton the new addition to The English Shop, 32-40 Nassau Street.

This Thursday and Friday, Eric P. Mihan, proprietor, will be host to the community in his newly-expanded shop, larger by 3,000 square feet as a result of the new show room.

Within the new section, Mr. Mihan will show his collection of women's clothes, and an overflow from the men's department as well. Four fitting rooms have been incorporated into the design of the new section.

Above the new area, Mr. Mihan has laid out his work rooms and the executive offices of The English Shop.

Mr. Mihan opened his first shop in 1952 at 33 Palmer Square, where he had 350 square feet of space. Later, he moved to 5 Palmer Square, and in 1958 to 32-36 Nassau.

In February, 1963, he purchased the building on the corner of Nassau and John Street, and began to plan its incorporation into his shop next door.

Richard Hoisington of Collins, Uhl, Holstington and Mahoney prepared the rebuilding and site alteration plans, modeling the store along the Colonial-modern lines that have become traditional in Princeton.

H. G. Houghton & Sons were the contractors. Telechin and Campanella designed the interior in "modern Colonial" style.

JAYCEES TO ELECT

At Thursday Meeting. Annual election of officers of the Princeton Junior Chamber of Commerce is scheduled for Thursday evening at 8. The meeting will be held at the YMCA's Dorothea House, 120 John Street.

The Jaycees, active for more than a decade in Princeton, will also hear final reports on its recent art exhibit, participation in last June's Hospital Fete and its cooperation in playing host to underprivileged children from New York.

John Lasley, 1964 Football Classic executive director, will describe plans for the August 29th Giants-Eagles game in Palmer Stadium.

The following have been nominated to be officers for the coming year: Harold West-

Building Fund showed that the total raised by Monday was $1,393,948. The fund's three year goal is $2,500,000.

The hospital "family" group reported an additional $38,310, bringing its total to $413,868, and the general gifts committee reported 295 gifts for $28,372. The Hopewell committee reported $1,101 in contributions, and the special gifts committee announced four additional donations totaling $7,750.

Leader of the top division in the general gifts committee report on Monday was Mrs. Edwin Metcalf, who reported 22 gifts for a total of $4,590. High team captain was Mrs. John Weber with 12 contributions and $2,710.

Heading a list of individual volunteer workers was Mrs. William Kleinberg, who turned in $1,500. The next report meeting will be held on April 22 at 8 p.m. in the University's Engineering Quadrangle.

KNOW THE SCORE!

PHS Plans Benefits. The student council at Princeton High School will sponsor a car wash from 9 to 5 on Saturday, April 25, with proceeds going toward a new scoreboard.

A variety show will be held that Saturday night for additional funds.

FLOWER SHOW SET

In Lawrenceville. The Lawrenceville Garden Club will sponsor a spring flower show next Wednesday, April 22, in the youth center of the Lawrenceville Presbyterian Church. The hours will be from 2 to 8 p.m.

Included will be artistic arrangements and horticultural displays. Refreshments will be served. Mrs. Michael Lanzara is chairman of the show, with Mrs. Henry Bach Jr. serving as co-chairman.

ALL FOR HUN

Auxiliary Party and Sale. A card party and bake sale for the benefit of The Hun School will be held Friday at 8 at the school by members of the Hun School Auxiliary.

Mrs. Carroll Smith, Mrs. Theodore Eckles and Mrs. William Armstrong are co-chairmen of the event.

IT'S STUDENT NIGHT

At Lawrenceville. Musical skits built around the ideas of students themselves will be featured Friday at the annual show of the Drama Club, Lawrenceville Elementary School. Curtain 7:30.

About 60 students, grades 2-6, will participate, under the direction of Francis Trainor and Alan Macnab.

WHO'S AHEAD AMONG THE REPUBLICANS—and even more importantly—who will be nominated as their presidential candidate in July? Barber Lewis Ferrara and Robert Meyers give their attention to the question, which looms larger and larger as convention time nears. (Staff Photo)

Question of the Week

Question: Based on present conditions, who do you think is the strongest Republican presidential candidate right now? How do you think will be nominated in July?

Where asked: Nassau Street.

Lewis Ferrara, New Brunswick, barber at Nassau Barber Shop, 13 1/2 Witherspoon Street: There's no question that Lodge is leading now, but I think in July it will have narrowed down to Lodge and Nixon. There are no more dark horses —all are front runners now. Between now and July, I think Nixon will gain ground over the other candidates and Lodge will keep his momentum. Lodge is coming back in May and I feel, between the two, Lodge is the logical choice. His write-in vote in New Hampshire proved, to me, that he is the front-runner.

Robert Meyers, Cranbury, financial consultant for Management Planning, Inc., 192 Nassau Street: I think Nixon will get it in July although I feel Lodge is more popular at the present time. Nixon is off on a world trip so he can get it in the newspapers. Then at election time he can say he was there to make it sound good. Nixon is a guy who can talk tough; I think he's the type of candidate who would campaign well against Johnson. He's good at in-fighting.

Richard Sudlow, Skillman, foreign car sales manager, Lahiere-Kane: I think Mr. Nixon is the strongest right now and I also think he'll get the nomination — unfortunately — because he is the only logical compromise candidate. In other words, I think he'll be the candidate against the better judgment of most Republicans. Originally, I was a Goldwater man because I agree with a lot of his policies but I'm being realistic about it: he doesn't have a chance.

Nathan Ockman, Princeton, physics, RCA: Right now, I think three people are still involved in it: Nixon, Lodge and Scranton. I think Lodge would be somewhat stronger than Nixon—he hasn't lost any elections—also, Nixon would intimidate a lot of industrial people. Lodge might be able to get some of the northern Democratic vote. He's fairly liberal. I would say Lodge has a greater possibility of being nominated.

Mrs. June Vanourek, Nassau Gardens, legal secretary for McCarthy, Bacsik & Hicks, 6 Charlton Street: It's pretty difficult to judge. Right now it seems the trend is going toward Lodge. Goldwater and Rockefeller seem to be out of it; Scranton, of course, I don't think is going to run. Nixon, I don't think has any chance at all. Someone who couldn't win an election as governor could not expect to win a presidential election. He would be a poor candidate in my opinion. I was pulling for Rockefeller but he seems to be out of it, too. Some people apparently are against him because of his divorce; it shouldn't have any bearing on it but, unfortunately, a lot of people feel that way. It seems to be pointing to Lodge in July. Apparently a lot of people are for him because of the great job he is doing as ambassador.

Philip C. Wolf, Levittown, Pa., member of the faculty of the Engineering and Applied Science Department, Princeton University and president, Interlech Corp., 195 Nassau Street: Presently, I think Lodge gets most of the publicity and at least, from that standpoint, I think he is the strongest right now. I think, Nixon, at present, would be considered a strong second. It's hard to say what will happen. From what I see, I think if the present trend continues, Lodge would be a logical choice in July.

Mrs. Annette Hochstadt, Kendall Park, housewife: As of right now, I don't think any candidate is ahead. It's a regional thing: Goldwater is favored in one area, Lodge in another. I also think there is still a favorite son situation present. I don't think it will be either Rockefeller or Goldwater, thinking negatively. Rockefeller certainly lost support in his own state; Goldwater is so conservative I can't see him getting the nomination. His supporters are so vocal that they make it appear he is in contention. I think it will be a dark horse candidate: Scranton, Romney, whomever —take your pick. One thing I'm sure of—it won't be Stassen.

Edwin Levin, Philadelphia, physicist: Princeton RCA Labs: Right now I think the strongest candidate is Goldwater but I think Nixon will be nominated. I think it will be Nixon more by a process of elimination than anything else. I don't think anybody else can get it.

Mrs. John Helmick, 56 Marion Road, E., housewife: Goldwater is probably the strongest candidate right now. However, probably Scranton or Lodge or some dark horse will get it. I say Scranton or Lodge because Goldwater and Rockefeller at this point are slitting each other's throat. I think they are dividing the party to the point where it will have to find another candidate who is acceptable to all.

Don Wittkeberg, Kendall Park, salesman: I think Goldwater is strongest right now and I think he also will be nominated — unfortunately. —Continued on Page 20

There's nobody strong enough to take it away from him. They should have started a long time ago to stop him with Seranton or Lodge. At one time I thought Goldwater was the man, but I've changed my mind. He's overplaying welfare state benefits. I think we have to provide some benefits for the people; he's too far in the other direction.

Mrs. Art Deleray. Kendall Park, housewife: Probably Lodge. He seems to be the most middle-of-the-road and the one who pleases most people. I think he'll be nominated.

Mrs. Ian Thom. 109 Bayard Lane, housewife: At the present time it seems Lodge is the strongest but I have no idea who will be nominated. The Republicans seem to lack cohesion right now. They have a lot of "non-candidates" like Nixon and Seranton. Normally, I'm a Republican—I don't vote blindly a Republican but I lean that way—and I don't have any favorite candidate right now and that disturbs me.

Sam Herman. Levittown, Pa. pharmacist: The strongest candidate right now is probably Nixon. I don't know who will be nominated because so many things can happen between now and then. Nixon seems to be the most neutral of the candidates insofar as he hasn't taken a firm stand on any one thing.

Mrs. W. L. Liggett. 231 State Road, housewife: I'm hoping that Lodge will come through. I just admire him and I think he's a fine man, a strong American. It's my feeling that he's the strongest candidate right now. It's amazing to me that so many people are for him and yet he's not here and he's not trying to campaign.

HYDRANT TESTS BEGIN
In Borough & Township.
The Princeton Water Company began this week the routine flushing of hydrants in the Borough and Township. The night-time program will last four to six weeks.
The high pressure flushing, which may briefly discolor the water, is designed to test the hydrants, permit pressure measurement and to determine the available flow of water in different locations.

NEED $10,000 MORE
For Montgomery School.
Montgomery Township voters will be asked on May 14, to approve an additional $40,000 bond issue to meet the cost of the planned 19-classroom addition to the elementary school. A public hearing is set for 8 p.m., Wednesday, May 6.
The Board of Education previously received voter consent to a $580,000 issue for the school.

According to John Van Vandt, board president, however, the bids were nearly $90,000 above the funds approved. After Norman G. Coates, architect, made changes in the plans, the project was re-bid. On the basis of the new bids, Mr. Van Vandt said, "We're still short $40,000." The only way costs can be further reduced, he noted, would mean eliminating classrooms.
The Board has named Ed-

"IF IT'S ABOUT ALCOHOL OR ALCOHOLICS, WE HAVE IT." So says Misses Adaline Tallan, librarian at the Rutgers Center of Alcohol Studies, as she shows one of the over 20,000 alcohol reference studies to Dr. Leon A. Greenberg of Princeton, professor of physiology and director of research at the center; C. Harvey Convery, of Drake, Convery and Cueman, designers of the building dedicated last week; and Dr. Earl Rubinstein of Princeton, sociologist and specialist in the study of the chronic drunkenness offender. Library is considered to be the most authoritative on the subject of alcohol in the world. Dr. Seiden Bacon, director of the center, is also a Princeton area resident. Others from Princeton on the staff: Dr. David Lester, bio-chemist, and Dr. Ellen Gordon, research specialist in liver metabolism. Speaker at the dedication was Dr. Eric Goldman, Princeton history professor and special assistant to President Lyndon Johnson.

ward McKeon to fill the newly-created post of vice-principal. Mr. McKeon, sixth grade teacher in the Bridgewater-Raritan elementary schools, will serve as an assistant to Orlando R. Costello, administrative principal, who is now administrator of the school district.

A native of Camden, Mr. McKeon is a graduate of Glassboro State College and has a master's degree from Rutgers. He taught seventh grade in Hillsborough Township for three years.

MAY GALA PLANNED
For Guidance Center. "One World of Fashion," featuring internationally-known designers, will be presented May 20 at the Princeton Inn by the Child Guidance Center Auxiliary Board.

Mrs. Robert L. Harwood is general chairman of the fashion show and luncheon. Assisting her are Mrs. Walter J. Borden, tea; Mrs. W. R. Edwards Jr., program; Mrs. Stephen Ehret, invitations; Mrs. Donald Henderson, music; Mrs. Charles Lawler, decorations; Mrs. Donald R. Bryant, door prizes, and Mrs. Warren M. Hulit, publicity.

Plans were previewed recently at a tea held at "Morgen." Guests were greeted by Mrs. Richard J. Hughes, Mrs. James J. Crowley, Auxiliary president, and Dominick Colangelo, Center administrator.

Dr. Charles R. Swift, director of the Center, discussed work with emotionally-disturbed children.

Louise McGinn and Edith Berke of Fashion Coordinators, Inc., illustrated some of the "extravaganzas" of the fashion show. The models will be from New York.

WELCOME MATS OUT

For Open House Tour. The ninth "Open House in Princeton" will be held May 16, sponsored by the Radcliffe Alumnae Club of Princeton and the Trenton - Princeton Mount Holyoke Alumnae Club.

Homes to be open to the public range from the antique-filled country house of Kenneth Chorley, longtime president of Colonial Williamsburg, to the modern home of Dr. and Mrs. David Rose, designed by architect Jules Gregory.

Proceeds will finance scholarships for area girls at the two colleges. The nine Princeton area homes on the tour will be open from 12:30 to 5 p.m.

Two of the historic houses in the center of Princeton will open: the 208-year-old "Dean's House" on the Princeton University campus, and the Beatty House on Vandeventer Avenue, built in the 1780's.

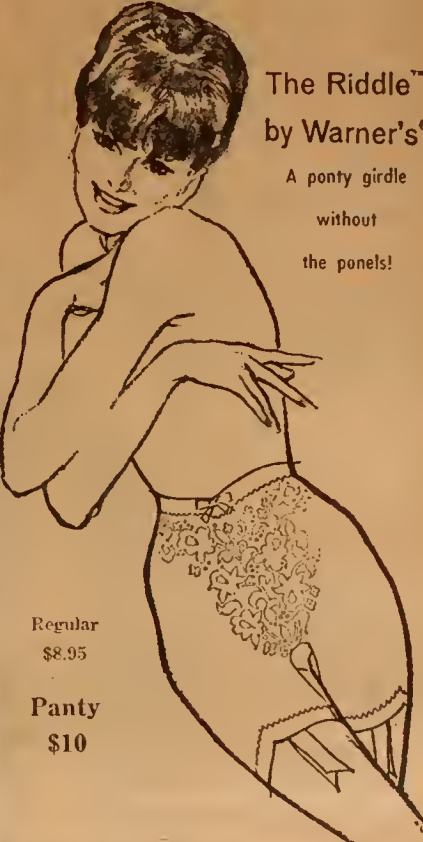

Also on the tour are the rambling country home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl H. White Jr. on Bedens Brook Road, which has an Italian sunken garden, and the late 19th Century home of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred C. Cluett Jr. at 87 Library Place.

Contemporary homes include the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Robert R. Thompson, 533 Mercer Road, remodeled by architect William Thompson; the John Andresen house at 25 Brookstone Drive, designed by Burton Weissbecker, and the home of Miss Allison Frantz, 27 Haslet Avenue, designed by architect Kenneth Kassler.

MAILBOX

Dear Brawl Discussed.
To the Editor of Town Topics:
After reading your article concerning William Saunders and his involvement in a fight March 21, I felt you were in need of a great deal of enlightenment.
First of all I think it should be pointed out that Mr. Saunders was invited to the party mentioned in the article. Secondly Mr. Saunders was minding his own affairs when confronted by Mr. Olsen.

Mr. Olsen repeatedly used abusive language and told Mr. Saunders to leave. It might be noted that Mr. Olsen was not the host at the party.
Mr. Saunders left the party and returned with three friends. Upon his arrival the second time Mr. Saunders One was Mr. Olsen and the other a Mr. Miller who was armed with a shotgun.

Mr. Olsen began to fight with Mr. Saunders. Using no underhanded methods as your article indicated, Mr. Saunders outboxed Mr. Olsen. Five times Mr. Saunders asked Mr. Olsen to stop but when he began to walk he was attacked each time by Mr. Olsen.
I believe it would be a great public service as well as a service to Mr. Saunders if this letter were published. There are four witnesses to testify to the truth of the content of this letter. However, when Mr. Saunders went to court, only one of these was allowed to testify.

NICHOLAS LONG
7 Edgell Street

Editor's Note: As TOWN TOPICS stated in its article on the fight, information was obtained on a police report of the affair.
Lawrence Township Magistrate Edmund Potkay has since told TOWN TOPICS that, regardless of who started the fight, the fine of $200 and the 30-day suspended sentence were given Saunders because (1) he was adjudged to have come looking for Olsen "to get revenge," (2) he administered to Olsen "an unmerciful beating." Judge Potkay did not consider other extenuating circumstances of Saunders here. Principally because disposition of the cases had not been made and Saunders was free on $1,500 bail. The other charges: atrocious assault and battery for allegedly stabbing his brother, Carlton, 19, on March 13 and four of breaking and entering Graduate College rooms.)

Museum Thanks Newspapers.
To the Editor of Town Topics:
The local and area newspapers have added another dimension to the public service that they routinely perform. They have helped prepare for display a complete exhibit for the children in this area on "The Art of Printing."

Numerous people in the field have helped. They compiled material, conducted field trips and lent type fonts, cartoon cuts and presses.

Added to this material on display at the Princeton Junior Museum are numerous contributions from local printing companies, local artists, and, of course, from the children who made up our most "active ingredients."

What Does He Look Like?

To the Editor of Town Topics: I'd like to suggest that you hereafter include the picture of the "Man/Woman of the Week" along with the article telling about them.

I find myself reading these front page tributes, admiring the individual, but always wondering what he or she (or they) look like.

I believe you would literally be doing your readers an additional service, plus doing a complete job of reporting.

DANIEL B. McELWAIN

Editor's Note: TOWN TOPICS appreciates the point of Mr. McElwain's thoughts — as well as those of others who have commented in similar fashion. Problems involved run from the "deadlines" which are ear-splittingly close to the last-minute switch made to keep the nomination current with the news, to lack of ability to photograph the nominee — on whom TOWN TOPICS may have sufficient information but who is himself at the time out of town.

Thanks to Mrs. Graves.

To the Editor of Town Topics: I am only eight years old and would like to thank Mrs. A. C. Graves for all the help she gave us finding the right pet for our family. She belongs to the Small Animal Rescue League and is a good friend to all animals. My parents talking about the rescue league and I certainly wouldn't let them do that to my pets. My family and my pets and me would like it to be stopped.

Animal Abuse Claimed.

To the Editor of Town Topics: We agree with Dr. Susman's statement that "humane actions are the only words but rather by deeds." That is the very point we are trying to stress in all our work, although it takes a great many words to produce the desired results, and we know it.

It would be ideal if all humane workers could have the benefit of a veterinary training. Since this cannot be, we must make use of all who are willing. Continued on Page 12.

ART In Princeton

GALLERY 100 LIBRARY
Leonard Baskin, Twofold,
Princeton will honor Leonard Baskin this month with a one-man showing of etchings, woodcuts and wood engravings
at Gallery 100 and a smaller yet significant exhibit in the Graphic Arts Room of Firestone Library. At the University, the students will have an opportunity to hear Mr. Baskin lecture a medium in which he is nearly as eloquent as in his chosen profession.

When he received, in October,
the Dickinson College Arts Award, he was introduced as being "among the very few who communicate to us a deep and moving commitment to humanity." In Mr. Baskin's subsequent address, this dedication was evident, and we wish we could reprint the whole speech as a clear point of view on art today by one who is a notable contemporary artist and one who, as professor of printmaking and sculpture
at Smith College, is also an active teacher.

Tradition, posing the question,
"Can art which is wholly devoid of figurative elements
hold such wonder and glory
as does much of the art of the past?" he sets his tone and answers, "The work of art must be irrevocably tied with lines of tradition and sequence to all other works of art created by men, and it must yet be unique in the artist's own critical
and central uniqueness."

PLENTY OF READING: Looking over one of the many thousands of books for the Bryn Mawr Book Sale are Mrs.
Oakes Ames (left), chairman, and Mrs. Raymond H. Carter, former co-chairman, working at the home of Mrs. Edward F. D'Arms, co-founder of the sale in 1931. The sale will be held next Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, April 22-24, at Second Presbyterian Church. (Richards Photo)

ed by men, and it must yet be unique in the artist's own critical
and central uniqueness."
His own study of the masters of the past has irrevocably influenced his work, and among his finest achievements are the series of portraits he has done
of these men in history whom he has most admired and from whom he has learned the most.
"Series 11," comprising ten original etching portraits, is a new publication, off the press
just four weeks ago, and shown at Gallery 100 in its entirety.

Definitive Portraits. Each portrait is drawn with consideration of matching style and character. The German, Adolph Von Manzel, is severe and cold of eye, whereas Donatello, under a broad-brimmed hat, is flooded with Italian heartiness.
Jusepe de Ribera is a masterpiece of characterization.
Only part of the head is described and this in one corner of the paper, but the height and stateliness of the whole

Utter sophistication and elegance depict Ottavio Leoni.
Peter Breughel has been done in profile with such charm and affection that it succeeds in enhancing one's own impression of that artist's warm personality.

Though the portraits are definitely the main attraction at Gallery 100, not to be missed are the woodcuts and wood engravings. Woodcuts, by merit of the gouge-like tools used, accentuate the texture of the grain and make a bold picture of a subject like "Sacrifice of Isaac."

The engravings, incised by finer tools on the cross-grain cut of wood, result in more delicate prints such as the beautifully simple and affecting "Dying Stag." More intricate and fitting to its subject is
"Owl," an illustration for William Blake's "Auguries of Innocence." "The owl that calls upon the night, speaks the unbeliever's fright" is right there.

Commitment. In Baskin's work, we go back again and again to that commitment to humanity which is the pith of his story as an artist. With patience and skill he comments on the "cracked world" about him, passionately reacting to injustice, poverty, the stupid-ities and false values of life, often choosing to shock, often exploring the subject of death.

"View of Worcester," for instance. Three silent figures with despair, resignation and sheer hunger in their attitudes, stand beyond the city. Two mangey dogs meticulously rout out a stray morsel in the dirt.
In "The Funeral," a cortege moved laboriously across the plain towards the cathedral. It is in the gesture and placement of the tiny figures that lies the pathos.

Firestone. In the Firestone Library Graphics Room, many of the exhibits are duplicates of those at Gallery 100, but a unique feature here is the contrast of three Eakins portraits, all attacked differently.
One, a complete and sensitive portrait of the man, another a more piercing character study, and the third, a woodcut caricature so broadly that the head over-reaches the bounds of the picture.

Also on view are several illustrations from books, an original signed etching from a series Mr. Baskin made for a recent edition of the "Iliad," and a frontispiece for "Poems"
by Wilfred Owen.

Between these two shows,
one can get a pretty comprehensive look at the work of a man who says, "Condemning the irrational in art, abhorring
the irrelevant, and disliking
the abstract, I see my way as passing along that great continuum, the column of the past in art extending into the future."

Person To Person

Cory S. Kommier

The article on economy in car
operation said
"We should hear in mind that old, or out-of-adjustment spark plugs not only put extra wear and tear on battery, generator, starter, etc., because of erratic running and harder starting." "Another problem creator is corrosive oil, which starts a whole series of expense items."
"Newer cars which may have fewer points that need frequent attention nevertheless must have periodic inspection
by men who know the product if the owner is to avoid serious troubles, for it takes only one neglected area to start a chain of difficulties."
"And, of course, improper motor settings can eat up gas at a terrific rate while causing various damages." The need for attention by specialists who practice the golden rule is well illustrated by the complex mechanisms in the modern car, but today, in all fields, when we have specialists within specialists, men with special knowledge, training, and conscientiousness, will have not only dollars for you but many, many headaches. May we prove our outstanding value to you? Kam-

Facts You Should Know About Oriental Rugs

Ninety percent of the Oriental rugs sold are washed either in Persia or in the United States in a solution designed to impart a high sheen and patina colors. This washing is a costly process, native to Orientals, and can immeas-

SPORTS In Princeton

LEAGUE RACES TO START

In Baseball, Lacrosse, Tennis. The beginning of championship races in three sports will mark the upcoming weekend, and the moods of the trio of Princeton teams involved vary widely. Eddie Donovan's baseball team is hopeful. Ferris Thomsen's lacrosse team is filled with apprehension. John Conroy's tennis team has good reason to be extremely confident.

The ball team faces Cornell Friday afternoon at 3:30 on Clarke Field, aware that its ability to retain a first division berth depends on far greater power at the plate than it has shown so far. Its 2-4 mark going into Wednesday's Lafayette game is the result of just 11 runs scored in its last five starts.

The picture in the Ivy Lacrosse League is scrambled, partially because Princeton victor in the last eight years appears a good deal weaker and partially because the rest of the teams seem to have achieved considerable balance. The Tigers followed their opening defeat by Maryland with a horrendous 16-1 shellacking at the hands of Navy.

The defense was known to be in need of major rebuilding, but the near total lack of offensive ability shown to date leaves the Tigers in anything but the role of favorites to add one more link to the chain. Fortunately, Cornell—Saturday's opponent at 2:30 on Clarke Field—does not appear to be one of the best of the 1964 Ivies. The Ithacans lost Saturday to Harvard, 13 to 9.

Tennis String Now at 36. Where the baseball team figures to have trouble finishing ahead of well-balanced Dartmouth and of Harvard's solid pitching, John Conroy's tennis team is a shoo-in to win all 12 of its matches this year. The Tigers went into the season with a string of 34 straight triumphs, added two more last weekend without the loss of a point and only the Weather Man appears in a position to prevent them from running their string to 46 by season's end.

So deep is Conroy's squad that Colgate and Georgetown left here last week with a 9-0 defeat apiece and a mark of having won just one set between them. The Tigers open defense of their Eastern Association title against Dartmouth Friday at 3 on the University Courts, going to Providence to play Brown the following day.

A strong Villanova nine will meet Princeton here Saturday at 2, with Rutgers on hand Monday at 3:30. Gerry Skev, Russey Rosenberg and sophomore Tom Scott will draw the starting assignments in this pair of contests and the Cornell game, although not necessarily in that order.

The Tigers' second victory against their four defeats was recorded Friday against Monmouth College in a ten-inning affair, with Scott getting the decision because he was still going strong in the extra round after hurling well as a replacement for Rosenberg in the seventh. Catcher Jody Johnson's long single to right drove in Don Weeden with the run that gave Princeton a 2-1 verdict.

Track Meet with Rutgers. No problem confronts Pete Morgan's track team Saturday in its first 1964 appearance in Palmer Stadium, with Rutgers providing the opposition. A freshman meet will be held concurrently at 2 o'clock.

The Tigers opened their season last weekend at New York with a one-sided 86-63 victory over Columbia. Princeton won 12 of 17 firsts.

Crew Heads for Annapolis. The first of the 1964 races which will determine just how good Princeton's crew is will take place Saturday on the Severn River at Annapolis. Navy will be looking for its first triumph over the Tigers in three years, and the men in both shells have visions of rowing in Tokyo next fall.

Dutch Schoel's eight gave an indication of balance and power Saturday when it turned in the best time recorded by a Princeton crew on the mile and three-quarter Carnegie course since 1961. Prince-

Palmer to Play Here

Arnold Palmer, who this week won the Masters' Tournament for an unprecedented fourth time, will play in an exhibition match Sunday, July 26, at the new Princeton Country Club on U.S. 1.

Scheduled to open next month, the 18-hole layout will cover 6284 yards and have a par of 36-36 — 72. The course is a part of the complex operated by the Princeton Recreation Center.

Palmer will play in a foursome expected to include Al Besselink, victor in the Azalea Open last month; Stan Dudas and a fourth professional whose name is almost as well known as Palmer's. The latter's identity will be made known shortly. Proceeds will benefit the Mercer County Heart Fund — Palmer is state chairman of this association in Pennsylvania.

ton took a surprisingly-stubborn Rutgers boat by a length while covering the distance in 8:50.8.

All five races, beginning with the second freshman, went to Orange and Black oars. It was a good day for Princeton rowing, what with the 150-lb. crew winning unexpectedly over Columbia on the Harlem River. The 'fifties will also face Navy Saturday at Annapolis.

BRADLEY NAMED CAPTAIN Of Tiger Basketball Team. It was "no contest" last week when the Princeton basketball team held its election for next year's captain.

Bill Bradley got the job—without benefit of a formal vote. The 6-5 All-American who'll return from the 1964 Olympics in time to start pre-season practice on November 1, will spend the winter breaking his own records. He holds every one in the Princeton basketball book.

In case you're interested, a group of noted physicians looking into the subject of snoring, have come up with the following conclusions: Lying on the back does little to promote snoring; accomplished snorers can operate from any position.

Another finding discloses that only half the male snorers are open-mouthed sleepers, while virtually all females who snore do so with their mouths open.

All our snorers are happy because they have the proper insurance coverage in every category. PHS HURDLERS POSE THREAT: The Princeton High School track team will be strong this year in the high and low hurdles because of the presence of veterans Tom Heiberger (left) and Bill Aiken. Though only juniors, each was a consistent winner in 1963, Aiken usually triumphing in the high's and Heiberger in the low's.

season Friday afternoon with an impressive 84-33 triumph over visiting Steinert.

This Friday, the Little Tigers will entertain Cathedral at 3:45. On Monday afternoon, the PHS javvee track team will meet the Freehold javvees here, starting at 3:45.

Top point-man for PHS with 13 was veteran Bill Aiken. Aiken won both the low and high hurdles and tied for first in the pole vault. Because Bill had more misses than his competitor in the vault, he was awarded second place. His winning effort of 13.4 in the high's was 1.2 seconds faster than his time against Steinert last spring when he also won.

Another double winner was Larry Mueller in the 100 and 220. In the 100, teammates Roger Madden and Vince Bocanuso were second and third. They reversed positions in the 220 to give PHS a sweep of the sprints.

In what Coach Gerald Groninger labeled "probably the best time of the day," Jay Gallagher won the mile in 4:52. One step behind was Lyle Story. It was Story's performance which Groninger reported to be one of those which had impressed him the most. Both are juniors.

In the shot, Jim McKeever (47'10") Andrew Kully (47'4") and Tony Arcaro—all former football linemen—finished.

pitcher. To go nine innings the first time out is one thing, but to strike out 10 and walk only one is another. It was a superb performance by Vomacka.

His counterpart, Ewing's Lou Innocenzi also went the distance, striking out 14 along the way. But he lacked Vomacka's control, hitting three batters in the first three innings and issuing five free passes. Wild as he was, however, he had an effective curve which got him out of trouble time and again. Only two batters—Lou Balestrieri and Dave Muni—were able to hit safely and Balestrieri's was a little dribbler to the mound.

Both teams scored in the second inning. Ewing on a lead-off double and a single two outs later. When PHS filled the sacks with no outs in its half of the inning, it appeared the visitors' slim lead would soon vanish.

Instead, PHS was almost the victim of a triple play: freshman Curt Mitchell lined out to the centerfielder. A fine throw cut down Jimmy Case at the plate and Paul Walstad was nearly out on the relay to third base. It was a play of the highest calibre.

Moments later, PHS gained a tie without the benefit of a hit. As Balestrieri attempted to steal second, the Ewing catcher threw the ball over the second baseman's head. Walstad then scampered home.

Thereafter, both teams settled down. In the final regular frame, the seventh, both teams had a base runner but neither could score. In the eighth, PHS had runners on first and second with one out but again failed to push a run across.

You deserve a change of scene — a vacation from regular routine.

But — before you begin your travels — be sure to trade plain old money that can be easily lost or stolen — for the kind of money that no one but you can cash — anytime, anywhere — Travelers Checks.

You can buy as much or as little in travelers check dollars as you need, for a few cents each at any of the three convenient offices of the Princeton Bank. Then you can travel with a medium of exchange that is better than cash, because each time you cash a travelers check you must sign again with your very own signature. If lost or stolen and your name is forged, you still get every penny back without question. So before you start your travels — get the travelling money you need.

We can even arrange a cash loan if you need it. And if you're travelling on big business where large sums of money may be needed abroad, we can arrange a letter of credit. Despite its inconclusiveness, the PHS-Ewing game was more than just an exercise in frustration. It was, in fact, quite revealing. For example, considering it was their first game, the Little Tigers' defense was remarkable: one error in nine innings. PHS second baseman Ken Ward accounted for the game's outstanding defensive play when he leaped high and to his left to snare a line drive late in the game.

Perhaps even more revealing was the control displayed by Rich Vomacka. PHS starting

The Little Tigers left eight men stranded and that, more than anything else, said Coach Zoll, hurt them. "You don't win close ball games and leave that many on base," he said.

Two hits and 13 strikeouts marked the 3-1 loss Monday to Steiner. The visiting Princetonians broke a scoreless tie with their lone tally in the top of the fourth, but then yielded single runs to Steiner in its last three at-bats. And, in contrast to the Ewing game, the losers were guilty of three errors.

The PHIS runs were recorded when Dave Muni walked, stole second and rode home on Paul Walstad's single to left center. That was the extent of the attack, Ron Pulling absorbing the defeat although he yielded only five hits.

PHIS STICKMEN WIN FAIR
Montclair, Hun Fall. The past two weeks have been winning ones for the Princeton High School lacrosse team.

Its most recent triumph was a 10-7 victory Saturday over Hun School. Earlier, Coach Bob Arhagist's players had registered an 8-2 victory over a strong Montclair High School squad and had coasted to a 14-1 verdict over Rutgers Prep in a scrimmage.

Before 50 onlookers, PHIS and Hun battled to a 3-3 tie at the end of the first period. Then, led by Dave Van Ness, who tallied three times, and Captain Sam Stewart, who chipped in with two goals, the Little Tigers pulled to a 6-4 half-time margin. Before four minutes had gone by in the third period, PHIS had increased its lead to 8-4.

Single scores were credited to Dave Hamilton, Carl Burns, Jim Boynton, Warren Elmer and Harvey Hammond. In a lacrosse game with Hun, PHIS combined goals by Bill Wilkinson and Bill Gaman and some sharp defense in the nets by Mike Hawk to defeat the Hun Jayvees, 2-1.

Earlier this month, Van Ness, Elmer and Rich Stewart combined for all but one Little Tiger goal as PHIS stopped Montclair, 6-3. Not until the third period when the Little Tigers were down two players was Montclair able to score. At the time, Princeton led, 7-0. Outstanding on defense were goalie Spencer Willard, and defensemen George Markuson, Mike Hawk and John Zeier.

This week the team will be on the road. It will return home May 1 for a 4 p.m. contest with Rutgers Prep at the Grover Park Field. The players expressed a hope that more of their followers would attend these home games, which are free.

HUN TO START SEASON
With Five Veterans. Five Hun School baseball veterans will return this year as Hun School coach Sanford Bing

Cooke, Lawson Boats Win

Winners at Sunday's opening races of the Carnegie Sailing Club's season were Harry Cooke's Penguin and Jerry Lawson's GP-14. With his wife, Elaine, as crew, Cooke won two of the eight Penguin class races and scored a total of 36 points.

Phil Hott, winner of four of the day's races, was second with 30.9. Other Penguin skippers and their standings: John Reeder, one first, 26.9 points; Bob Wilson, one first, 26.9; Dexter Miller, 24.1, and Walt Foster, 19.3.

Lawson won three of the GP-14 races and scored 13.4 points. George Corl took the fourth race, scored 8.2, and Walt Gibson was third with 6.8.

attempts to improve on 1963's fine 7-3 record.

They are co-captain Ted Isaacson, outfielder; co-captain Herman Penner, catcher; Lonnie Kaplan, third-base, outfield; Scott Page, pitcher; and Greg Ganong, pitcher-outfielder. Page was the leading hurler for the Red and Black last year.

Other candidates who have performed well in pre-season practice are Al Marcus, Jeff Kirsch and Chris Westover. All three are potential infield fixtures, while Westover may also be called on to pitch and Marcus to play the outfield. Coach Bing reported that he has every hope of duplicating last year's record.

Hun will play its second game of a 12-game schedule Saturday afternoon at George School. It was scheduled to open its season Wednesday at Perkiomen. Seven Jayvee contests also are on the schedule.

MINIATURE GOLF ADDED

To Pennington Range. At Tony Midler's 16-acre Golfland on Route 69, Pennington, the latest addition is an 18-hole miniature course which should be ready for its first "fore" this weekend.

There is also a nine-hole pitch-and-putt course at Golfland and a canopy-covered driving range. Plans for next year call for a nine-hole, par three course. Each hole, between 100 and 150 yards long, will test the iron shots one needs to master short holes.

Tony, a member of the Professional Golfers Association for 28 years, will be on hand each day to give lessons by appointment. The slender 50-year old native of Merchantville, virtually grew up with a golf club in his hand.

He began his career at 12 as a caddy at the Merchantville Country Club where he was an assistant pro for seven years. He became a pro at 19.

At the Cooper River County Club outside Camden, his first "home course" as a pro, he had one of his best rounds, a 65.

He played the back nine in 28, nine under par, and including two eagles and five birdies.

He next was at the Springhill Country Club, Maple Shade, for 11 years, and then at the Glenn Brook Country Club in Stroudsburg, Pa., for four. He bought Golfland eight years ago.

He has three other brothers—all golfers. Paul, is pro at the Pitman, N. J., Country Club. Phil and Pete own a large driving range near Pennsauken and teach golf in Pennsauken High School. During his career he has won a number of tournaments in the Philadelphia area.

BOWLING NOTES

Key Shop Keeps Lead. In the Princeton "B" League bowling competition last week, The Key Shop, with 40 wins, held on to its first-place slot, with Balestrieri, 52, a close second. Kase Kleaners is third with 46, followed by a triple tie for fourth among Ivy Inn, Jugtown Del and Benwick's. Joe Baldino's 639 was high three-game score for the league, and his 267 was high for a single game. Next highest games last week in the "B" League were both rolled by Bill Penelli, a 223 and a 222.

Other highs: Joe Baldino, 221; Bill Dumble, 213; Al Hibbard, 209; Frank Maddalao, 205; Wilton Rose, 203; Vince Gregg, 201; and Frank Delneso, 200.

Mercer Engine Co. No. 3 maintained its lead in the Tri-County Firemen's League with a total of 54 to 52 for Dutch Neck, Lawrenceville is third with 50, followed by Princeton Junction at 48.

A 224 by Art Parr was high single game for the week. Others over 200 for single games: Bip Davison, 216; Ken Luck, 213; and John Donaldson, 209.

Colonial Tops 3-Man Loop. A strong lead in the Princeton Three-Man Classic was maintained by Colonial Restaurant with 61½ wins. Johnson Electric, second at 50½, is tallied by Turney Motors, 44.

High match total score was a 602 rolled by Mike Basile, including one game of 226. A close second was Joe Baldino with 601 and an individual game of 215. Highest single game was Bruce Hornstein's 232. Other top single-game scorers: Bill Dumble, 205; Frank Delneso, 204; Bob Cersano, 203; and Vic Wyszynski, 200.

Nassau Delicatessen is the league leader in the Nassau League following last week's contests. It holds a 46-win edge over Tiger Garage's 44. Thorne's Pharmacy has 42, and Cooper & Schafer is next with 40.

High one-game scorers for the week were: Pete Miller, 210; Pros Aessenbacher, 208; Bill Dumble, 204; John Fugill, Bob Scuterati and Al Ward, 202's; and Russ Sulphen and Sam Balestrieri, 201's.

Women's League Leaders. Woolworth's, with 32 wins, maintains its lead in the Princeton Business Women's League. Next is Claridge Wine & Liquor, 28, followed by Jefferson Plumbing, 26.

High scorers for the week were Dot Silverter, 189, and Phil Souza, 170.

In the Princeton Women's Bowling League at the Route One lanes, The First National Bank of Cranbury now has 68 wins to remain in first place. Gropps Tavern, 54, and The Five Friends, 52, follow.

Highest series score was Marilyn Murphy's 214, 168, 193—577. Next was a 206, 180, 184—570 by Sara Rose, Betty Opdyke's 196 was third highest single game.

CYANAMID WINS PLAYOFF

In YMCA Industrial League. Unbeaten in regular season competition, the champion American Cyanamid quintet also won the league playoff last week when it defeated Ed-educational Testing Service, 42-36, in the YMCA Research and Industrial Basketball League. Astro A finished third and Western Electric, fourth.

In the title game, Cyanamid's Bob Montgomery scored 13 points to help subdue a scrappy ETS squad. In the contest for third place, Astro A overcame 28-19 halftime deficit and went on to defeat Western Electric, 60-49. Phil Moody's 27 points were the chief factor in Astro's success.

John Springer, Physical Director at the Princeton Y, presented trophies and individual awards to members of the Cyanamid team. Clark Lennon of Cyanamid accepted the League and playoff trophies.

COUNTY COURSE OPENS

On Saturday, Official opening of the Mountain View Golf Course, Mercer County's public course, will take place on Saturday. There will be a "kicker's" contest, low gross and low net tournaments, contest for fewest putts in 18 holes and a "nearest to the pin" event on a par three hole.

Improvements to Mountain View since last fall include the rebuilding of the 17th green, the construction of several new tees and the planting of about 75 trees and bushes. Also, blue spruce trees have been set out on each side of the fairways to designate 150-yard distances from the tees.

Schedules for tournaments and municipality free play will be made public in the near future. Larry (Skip) Ferrara, the Mountain View professional, will again be on hand for private and group lessons, to conduct clinics and to supervise league play.

PRE-SEASON WORK DAYS

For Hopewell Little League. The next three Saturdays have been scheduled as work days for fathers with sons participating in the Hopewell Township Little League. Hours set for work in preparing the playing field are from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Letters have been mailed to each father notifying him of the arrangements. Michael Orlando, president of the Little League, and John Wolfkeil, vice-president, are hoping for a large turnout for the three Saturdays.

IS IT 'YES' OR 'NO'?

PHS Choir Nears Trip Goal. Mail coming into Princeton High School the past few days has been unusually heavy. The reason? Princetonians from far and near are each adding their bit to make up the $8,500 still needed by Saturday so that the school's famed choir can go on its concert tour of Europe this summer.

One letter, from Berkeley, Calif., to Choir Director Thomas Hilbish is typical of the notes in which the contributions, large and small but all highly appreciated, have been arriving. Sent by a former choir member, it reads:

"I have heard from my mother about the marvelous invitations you have received from Europe and about your campaign to raise the necessary funds. Please accept this small drop in your colossal bucket."

"The lessons I learned from you and your singers last summer (to say nothing of my choir days)," the note concludes, "continue to prove invaluable. I hope with all my heart that you will reach your goal."

Public contributions to the choir's tour fund had risen to over $6,000 by the end of last week. Among them: $63 from a special collection at a Sunday morning service of the Witherspoon Street Presbyterian Church.

A bake sale by choir members last Saturday added another $225, and members are also looking solid for their money-raising work program. Princeton businesses are chipping in too: last week Male's Book Shop contributed 15% of its sales income for three days. But there is still $8,500 to go by Saturday. Contributions of any size and all tax-deductible should be sent to the PHS Choir Fund, Princeton High School. But please hurry.

STUDENTS INVITED

To Douglass Tea. Prospective freshmen are invited to a coffee hour by the Douglass College alumnae Saturday from 10 to noon at the home of Mrs. John Cullen, 290 Stockton Road. Mrs. John Ahrens is in charge of arrangements. Her assistants are Mrs. Frederick Petke, Miss Eleanor Pionelli, Miss Suzanne Rody and Mrs. Arthur Traficonte. Douglass students and faculty members from Princeton, Kingston, Cranbury, Hightstown, Pennington, Hopewell, Titusville and Hamilton Square will be available to answer questions. Alumnae of the college are invited.

76 THROMBONES . . . PHS Band to Play. Princeton High School's Symphonietta Band will exchange concerts with the Mansfield High School "Hornet Band" of Mansfield, Mass., starting next Thursday with a concert by the Massachusetts group at 8 p.m. in the auditorium of Princeton High School.

The Princeton band will return the visit with a concert on Friday, May 15 in Mansfield. Present plans call for a concert by the Princeton Symphonietta band at the New York World's Fair on Saturday, May 16 on the trip hom from Massachusetts.

WOMEN VOTERS TO MEET From Hopewell Valley. The League of Women Voters of Hopewell Valley will hold its second annual meeting Wednesday, April 29, at 8 p.m. in the fellowship hall of the Presbyterian Church. Mrs. Peter Maruhn, president, will preside.

On the agenda are election of officers, revision of by-laws, and the program and budget for next year. The League's work during the past year, the first as a operating group, will be reviewed. Refreshments will be served following the meeting.

KAPPAS TO MEET

Will Install Officers. The Kappa Kappa Gamma Club of Mercer County will meet this Thursday at 11 for lunch and the installation of officers at the home of Mrs. William Davis, 131 Laurel Road.

The new officers are: Mrs. Daniel Carter, president; Mrs. Charles Bardwell, vice-president; Mrs. David Rahr, treasurer; Mrs. Joseph Thomas, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. Mark Jones, recording secretary.

70 ROTARIANS TO MEET

At Atlantic City. Seventy members of the Princeton Rotary Club will attend the annual conference of 48 Central New Jersey Rotary Clubs at Atlantic City on April 24 and 25. Jerald S. Hanks, president of the Princeton organization says that the purpose of the conference is "to discuss matters relating to this district of Rotary, to hear informative addresses on recent activities and to make plans for increasing our service."

Presiding officer at conference sessions will be Paul R. Chesebro, headmaster of the Hun School. Dr. Chesebro is the governor of the Central New Jersey Rotary district.

The Princeton club, as the district governor's member group, will act as host club for the conference. Serving with Mr. Hanks will be John T. Henderson, displays; Cory S. Kammler, hospitality; James McKeever, song leader; Robert P. Papino, reception, and Edward Robinson, registration.

MUSIC In Princeton

SEASON ENDS

For Princeton Symphony. The Princeton Symphony Orchestra, Nicholas Harsanyi, conductor, completed its four-concert season Monday night in McCarter Theatre with Arthur Balsam as soloist, appearing as pianist in concerts by Hummel and Mozart. Joseph Haydn was represented by an overture and Dika Newlin by a Chamber Symphony for twelve solo instruments. The evening began with Haydn's Overture to his opera, "Armida," and the orchestra turned in a rousing performance of Haydn's "Gluck-type" treatment of an opera overture as Rimoldi struggles to break with the soldier's disciplines. Aside from a little murky intonation, the orchestra gave the work good dramatics.

Mr. Balsam appeared next in Johann Hummel's Concerto for Piano in A minor, Opus 85. Hummel, the darling of the piano world in the last quarter of the 18th century, made his first concert tour at the age of nine. He boasted such teachers as Mozart, Clementi and Haydn, and taught such pianists as Czerny and Thalberg. He composed several concertos for piano and obviously wrote them for himself, duplicating Mozart's scheme.

In a way it was a shame to program this work with a Mozart concerto, as one would have to listen comparatively. The work had an orderly shape and plenty for the piano to do, but also it was freighted with orchestral dubbings and piano noodlings. The orchestra spoke only because it seemed proper and the piano writing, if anything, was over-florid and became in many places merely a high-wire act.

Much of the work was curiously Chopinesque, which, of course, makes no sense because Chopin would have been somewhere between five and ten years old when this work was written. The chief weakness of the work is the orchestration which seemed to remain forever in an expressionless middle register and lent itself to nothing.

Mr. Balsam played the work with technical clarity to burn. It was almost overclear in that there was a tendency to brittleness when not needed, but one must wonder just how much in the way of poetry can be achieved on the piano in McCarter Theatre.

New Work Played. After intermission a Chamber Symphony for Twelve Solo Instruments by Dika Newlin was performed. This is a three movement work (Variations, Intermezzo and Rondo) which proved to be sixteen minutes of varying textures, well-structured for the chosen orchestra.

Miss Newlin selected her tone rows in thirds, as she said, "To include tonal implications." Also, it achieved a nice contrasting melodic interval structure to the ecophonies within the harmonic scheme. Especially fetching was the little A-B-A second movement, Intermezzo, which seemed to have just the right amount of musical content for the time scheme.

The only quality found wanting was that each instrument seemed "stuck" with certain material and seemed not to move around enough within their own expressive capabilities. The work was well played by the soloists under the conductor's thoughtful guidance.

Pianist Returns. The last work of the evening brought Mr. Balsam again to the stage to play Mozart's Concerto for Piano No. 26 in D Major (K. 537). This work was written in 1780, the same period as the writing of the three "great" symphonies. Mozart played it at a morning concert in Frankfurt as part of the "coronation" doings for Leopold II, hence its silly nickname.

This is the concerto that has the curious triplet episode in the first movement that is suggestive of Beethoven's Opus 73.

SUNDAY SOLOIST: Susan Rowles of Princeton will play in Sunday's concert by the Princeton University Orchestra.

another concerto with a nickname, "The Emperor." Mr. Harsanyi and his orchestra and Mr. Balsam went right to the first and second subjects and alterations and extensions in clear listenability.

Mr. Balsam's sense of pianistic clarity was heard to great advantage in this performance. One could wish, however, in a concerto where the repetitions are so liberal, that a little more imagination could have been used. Mr. Balsam's workmanlike approach to the piano is not to be denied and where rhythmic precision is called for, and certainly it was in these two concertos, he leaves little to be desired.

In four concertos this season the Princeton Symphony Orchestra has accompanied three piano concertos, one violin concerto, one cello concerto, one flute concerto, one mass, one song cycle and two arias. The orchestra expressed itself as an instrument in an 18th century opera overture, some 19th century theatre music and two contemporary works.

Mozart scored heavily this season with three concertos and a mass. The other composers were Haydn, Hummel, Dvorak, Massenet, Faure, Debussy, Sokoloff, Maxwell-Darby and Dika Newlin. The season was well played and well attended, but no matter how you defend it, it was not a symphony season and, if this reviewer may make a suggestion for the future, it would be that one symphony be done at each concert, which still would leave plenty of room for accompaniments and music "something old, something new."

FINAL CONCERT SET

For Princeton Orchestra. The Friends of Music will present the final concert of the season of the Princeton University Orchestra this Sunday at 3:30 in Alexander Hall. Nicholas Harsanyi will conduct Irving Fine's "Divisions for Orchestra," Mozart's "Concerto in C for Flute, Harp and Orchestra" and Prokofiev's "Symphonic Suite from 'Lieutenant Kije,' Opus 60."

Soloists in the free concert will be Susanne Rowles, harpist, a student at the Curtis Institute in Philadelphia, and Marie Moulton, flutist, a member of the Trenton Symphony Orchestra. Miss Rowles began studying the harp with Kathryn Wright of Cranbury, and was first harpist in the All-State Orchestra while attending Princeton High School. Miss Moulton, a graduate of San Diego State College, taught at the Longy School of Music in Boston and studied at the New England Conservatory with James Pappousakis.

Mr. Harsanyi has been a member of the University's music faculty for ten years, and is music director and conductor of the Princeton Symphony Orchestra, the Trenton Symphony Orchestra and the Colonial Symphony Orchestra of Madison.

KROLL GROUP TO PLAY In "Series III." The Kroll Quartet will offer a program of Mozart, Prokofiev and Beethoven Monday evening in 10 McCosh, as the second concert of string music outside the concert series I and II. Special student tickets at $1 and at regular prices are available at the University Store and at the box office Monday evening.

The Kroll group, America's oldest string quartet, will play Mozart's "Dissonant Quartet, K. 465," one of six quartets dedicated to Haydn; one of Beethoven's "Rasoumovsky Quartets" and Prokofiev's "Second Quartet."

The Kroll Quartet has worked together for over 20 years, and was once known as the Coolidge String Quartet. It has covered the classic and romantic repertoires, and has introduced contemporary works as well.

The Quartet presented Walter Piston's new string quartet in its world premier last fall in Europe.

MUSIC CLUB TO MEET

For Varied Program. The Princeton Music Club will hold its monthly meeting next Wednesday, April 22, at 8:30 p.m. at the Unitarian Church. The public is invited to hear Rachel Armstrong, John Ellis, Irina Holt, Nadia Koutzen and George Reeves.

The program by members and the guest artists will include violin, voice and piano music. Mrs. McKim Norton and Mrs. Chester Stroup are in charge of refreshments. Mrs. W. D. Hayes is president of the club.

TO HONOR SHAKESPEARE

Pro Musica Coming. A concert of Elizabethan music for voice and instruments will be given in McCarter Theatre by members of the New York Pro Musica as their tribute to Shakespeare on the 400th anniversary of his birth. Tickets are available at McCarter.

The concert will be given on Sunday afternoon, May 3, at 3 p.m. under the direction of Noah Greenberg. The program itself will be heard in premier on April 25 as part of the Lincoln Center World's Fair Festival.

For the Shakespeare concert, Mr. Greenberg has chosen madrigals by Morley and Dowland and Orlando Gibbons' famous "Street Cries." Pro Musica has long been a favorite with Princeton audiences and has often come to McCarter for the regular Princeton University Concerts series.

us, regardless of title. This includes a tremendous number of volunteers who give fully of their time.

Many of them have grown up in conjunction with one or more animals and have learned by experience how to keep them. The writer has cared for dogs, cats, horses, goats, sheep, pigs, hamsters, chinchillas, rabbits, chickens, turkeys, geese, pigeons, and parakeets.

We have experienced blistered hands, aching back, hand feeding of sick animals, and sleepless nights in the care of animals. Yet when emergency treatment was required, we naturally called for the professionally-trained doctor.

Just one more word. Under the Rabies Control law, Dr. Sussman's office of the Public Health Department is charged with the responsibility of pet shops, shelters, public pounds, etc.

We ask Dr. Sussman why many pounds throughout the state from Bergen County to Cape May do not have a charcoal filter and water cooling tank on the carbon monoxide euthanasia equipment. At present motors of all degree of repairs vent their unfiltered, hot exhaust into the chamber used for euthanasia?

Why, Dr. Sussman, have these conditions been permitted to continue for so long?

News Of The CHURCHES

CHANGES PENDING

At All Saints' Chapel, Partial independence may come to All Saints' Chapel of Trinity Parish — if the Convention of the Episcopal Diocese of New Jersey grants approval.

Although there is a movement towards full independence, the rector, wardens and vestry made their position clear this week in a parish letter, signed by Richard K. Paynter Jr. and Hugh D. Wise Jr., wardens:

"We are convinced that the cause of the Church would be harmed, rather than helped, by the creation of a second parish, which would inevitably foster congregationalism and competition among us."

Chapel Committee Planned. Parish leaders will propose to the Convention that the Chapel be operated under the diocesan "Plan B" for parochial chapels. This establishes a Chapel Committee, consisting of a warden, treasurer and secretary elected by the registered voters of the Chapel.

Also on the Committee would be two members appointed from the parish vestry by the rector, the Rev. Dr. Robert H. Spears Jr. The chapel vicar would also be appointed by the rector.

The letter noted, "Plan A... provides very little autonomy for a parochial chapel, and this was appropriate when All Saints' Chapel first started. But with the continued growth in strength and leadership, the Chapel has now been able to assume and discharge successfully many obligations not usually associated with a 'Plan A' chapel. We have watched with great joy this growth in strength and accomplishment."

TO HOLD AUCTION

At Unitarian Church. The annual auction and sale sponsored by the Unitarian Church of Princeton will be held this Saturday in the church auditorium, Route 206 and Cherry Hill Road.

The sale begins at 10, followed by the auction at 11:30. Mrs. Joseph E. Bachelder and John H. Piazza are co-chairmen, and Mrs. Elmer Alpert is auction chairman.

A wide variety of items will be available, including household articles, toys, furniture, records and miscellany. A snack bar will be open under the direction of the Men's Club, and films are on the program for children during the auction.

Auctioneers include Jackson P. English, James H. Johnson, William Lieberman, Richard C. Mason, Robert S. Sturken and Kenneth A. Wells.

Chairmen are: Mrs. Kenneth E. Spear, French Flower Mart; Mrs. Alfred O. Hoyt and Mrs. Byram Vural, gourmet foods; Nacky Smith, records; Mr. and Mrs. Bernard R. Laucius, books and periodicals; Mr. and Mrs. George Easter, children's corner; and Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Shimbarg, white elephant items; Mr. and Mrs. Leo Dratfield, children's films, and Stephen Lancatore, merchant solicitation.

MUSICIAN TO LECTURE

On Christian Science. Martin Broones, musician and former Hollywood producer, will give a public lecture at 3:30 this Sunday at the Nassau Inn. The First Church of Christ, Scientist, is sponsor.

Mr. Broones, who studied at the Royal College of Music, London, is the composer of sacred songs and musical scores for light operas. He organized and directed the first music department in Hollywood at MGM. Later, he produced both films and radio shows, acting also as manager and producer for his wife, Charlotte Greenwood.

Mr. Broones began in 1948 to devote full time to Christian Science healing. He is a member of The Christian Science Board of Lectureship.

TWO CHURCHES UNITE

For Inner City Study. An innovation in Hopewell is the School of Missions being conducted jointly by First Presbyterian Church and Calvary Baptist Church. The weekly attendance averages 117.

Theme of the interdenominational school is "The Changing City Challenges the Church." This Sunday's speaker, the Rev. John Murray, associate executive of the Synod of New Jersey of the Presbyterian Church will discuss "20 Years in Hell's Kitchen." A play, "A Tale of Two Cities," will be presented by the young people of Trenton's Covenant Presbyterian Church.

The program begins at 4:15 p.m. with supper at 5:45, and closes at 7. Participants bring a light supper; beverages and dessert are supplied by the church women. All are welcome.

Teachers from the two congregations include Mrs. Mary Allen, Mrs. Junius Davis, Mrs. Mary LaPaglia, Mrs. Stark Jones, Miss Mildred Rathousky, Mrs. Edward Denaci, Mrs. Phyllis Wirth, Fred Holley, Richard Van Doren and Stark Jones.

The Rev. Robert Berringer of First Presbyterian and the Rev. Curtis Hoffman of Calvary Baptist initiated the joint school.

Obituaries

Charles Salliez, 71, died April 8 at his home, 89 Jefferson Road. He was a partner of C. E. Salliez & Sons, liquor retailers at 174 Nassau Street.

Mr. Salliez was a member of American Legion Post 76, Princeton Council 636, Knights of Columbus and Engine Company No. 3.

Surviving are a son, Charles J.; a daughter, Miss Victoria B. Salliez, and three grandchildren.

Requiem high mass was celebrated in St. Paul's Church. Interment was in the parish cemetery under direction of the Kimble Funeral Home. Memorial contributions may be sent to the Princeton First Aid Unit.

Russell P. Carter, 56, of 609 Prospect Avenue Extension, died April 9 in Princeton Hospital. He was the husband of Mrs. Helene G. Carter.

Born in Lawrenceville, Mr. Carter was the son of the late William H. and Etna J. C. Carter. He was a veteran of World War II, and was formerly employed in the ticket section of the Pennsylvania Railroad in New York.

Mr. Carter was a member of American Legion Post 76; Princeton Lodge 38, F & AM; Railway Clerks Association and Second Presbyterian Church.

Also surviving are a son, Russell P. Jr. of Stow, O.; a sister, Mrs. Helen C. Kraus of Princeton; a grandchild and nieces and nephews.

The service was held at the Mather Funeral Home, the Rev. F. Hugh Liffiton officiating. Memorial gifts may be sent to the Princeton Hospital Building Fund.

Leslie C. Stratton, 72 died April 7 at his home, 301 Snowden Lane. He was the husband of Mrs. Frederika O. Stratton. From 1936 to 1957, Mr. Stratton was national director of public relations of the Boy Scouts of America. He was secretary and director of the Theodore Roosevelt Association, New York City, from 1957 until January 1961.

Born in Brooklyn, N.Y., the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Stratton, publisher of Brooklyn weekly newspapers, his work in the public relations field covered a period of 50 years.

During World War I, Mr. Stratton directed War Savings Stamps publicity in Brooklyn. He was the author of "The Old Priest's Philosophy" which received critical approval. He was a publicist for banks and public utilities. In the radio field he was chairman of the NBC series, "Here's to Youth." Mr. Stratton helped develop the Boy Scouts' visual education service and was responsible for the public relations programs at the three national Boy Scout jamborees. He worked with the Post Office Department in developing the 1950 commemorative stamp honoring the Scouts.

Also surviving are two sons, Leslie Jr., of Westwood, N.J., and Edward L. of Ridgewood, N.J.; a daughter, Miss Jean Stratton of Princeton; and two sisters, Mrs. Harold C. Whittemore of New Rochelle, N.Y., and Mrs. Gordon M. Curtis of Old Greenwich, Conn.

A private service was held at Red Hook, N.Y. Arrangements were under the direction of the Mather Funeral Home.

Rhododendron, Andromeda, spruce, hemlock, dogwood, firethorn, spring bulbs, roses — all planted and flourishing under tender, loving care — surround a sweet small house nestled on a secluded acre plus, sloping down to a running brook. Although spring, summer and early fall privacy is virtually complete — there's barely a sign of another house — the area is still conveniently close to town. Perfect as is for a couple, the house can easily be expanded for a larger family. In either case it is priced right. Exclusively ours.

Will Your Children

Go To College?

Four years at a good college costs $10,000 to $15,000. It is sensible to start planning while your children are young. A small amount saved each year now in a tax-sheltered Insured College Trust Fund can guarantee funds for your children even if their father's income is lost through death or disability — and your savings receive annual tax-free interest and tax-free dividends.

ELECTRIC LIVING GUIDE

WHAT IS "ALL-ELECTRIC?" Must Include Complete Electrical Heating System

"They came in waving a clipping torn from the paper of the town they were moving from—and asking what I could recommend like it 'all-electric,'" said the real estate man, going on to explain, "Why, those nice kids typify a state of mind that gives us the shudders."

"Why? Well I'm as pro-electricity for fuel uses as you can get . . . because I personally have found it the most satisfactory heating I've ever lived with."

"Well, here are these kids—at least I call 'em that because they're about my daughter's age, but heaven knows in their bracket are some of my best customers. Young adults."

"Anyway, the ad—and I've seen plenty not too far from home—pictures a jolly lineup of the electrical servants that come with the house: there's the washer, the dryer, the stove, and so on and so on . . . One big omission, though. It's not an all-electric house if the heating system isn't electrical, too."

"Sure I got them what they wanted. A real all-electrical house, complete with baseboard electrical heating and a gold Medallion on the door knocker."

"The Gold Medallion? Well, in addition to certifying the electrification it also assures that some of the things you can't see—like insulation are up to snuff."

"I told them to keep the actual certificate with the deed. Can mean a better price if they ever want to sell."

QUESTION BOX

Q. What accounts for the growing number of houses heated by electricity?

A. The reasons are many. In addition to maximum comfort whatever the weather outside these are some of the leading reasons:

- The heating system can be expected to last the life of the house
- Maintenance is either negligible or nil
- No space wasted—either on storage or bulky radiators.
- Greater freedom in interior decorating . . . heating installations are either unobtrusive or invisible
- Electric heat is instantly available
- Individual thermostats give room-by-room temperature control.

Q. Is there an actual Gold Medallion for electrically heated houses or is this just an expression?

A. No indeed, it certainly is not just an expression. After inspection a house found to comply with the standards set gets a real plaque to affix to the house together with a certificate. Some possessors incorporate the medallion into a door knocker, or attached ornamentally to a house number. Mounting above the doorbell is another frequent application.

UP-DATE... ANTIQUE HEATING NOW!

This elegant relic reminds us of by-gone days. Be elegant, better your days ahead with total electric home heating.

Q. Why are we supposed to keep the attic vents open in the winter too in our new electrically heated house?

A. According to the National Mineral Wool Insulation Association—it is because when built according to the quality construction—recommended, the house is of optimum tightness to provide efficient—and cost saving—use of fuel. The attic vent, therefore, is an equalizer in that it lets unwanted moisture vapor escape.

Q. What is a vapor barrier?

A. Properly installed, the following are considered effective:

1. Laminated asphalt coated paper (waterproofed).
2. Polyethylene sheet (2 mil or thicker for walls and ceiling, and 4 mil or thicker when used as ground moisture seals over crawl space earth or under slabs.)
3. Foil-backed gypsum

Q. Could you print your "must have" list for a finished basement?

A. Glad to, since others who missed it before might also find it helpful.

- Insulation.
- A well-seal outside door, covered with a bulkhead where there is grading.
- A good lock for the door.
- Half-bathroom.
- Good lighting.
- Easy to clean floor surfacing.
- Adequate storage facilities (a place for everything).

Of course you would include the basement in your electrical heat installation. The lack of dampness and correct temperature also means better maintenance for any workshop area and expensive tools you may have.
